

France to Hasten Plan for Settling War Debt to U.S.

Two Representatives Appointed to Study Question, Foreign Minister Briand Announces.

ITALY PREPARING WAY FOR PAYMENT

First Step Is Taken at Conference Between Ambassador Martino and Secretary Mellon.

BY JOHN O'BRIEN.

Paris, May 26.—France already has taken action for adjustment of the American war debt and has appointed two representatives to hasten the study of the question, according to Foreign Minister Briand.

Briand revealed this in the senate Tuesday night, when answering an interpellation based on the charge that France's promise to pay was not sufficient and that serious conversations on debts should be started with Washington.

Briand replied that this had already been done.

Workers Are Busy.

"America desires the question of debts to escape the movement of public opinion and not to be involved in interior politics," Briand said. "She is right. The French government has decided to consider the question and has charged two representatives to hasten the study of the problem."

The foreign minister did not say what course these representatives would follow or whether they would constitute a debt commission to Washington.

Briand replied to suggestions that France was not struggling sufficiently against propaganda aimed to discredit her in American eyes. He did not believe, he said, that America ever had committed the affront of suspecting France wished to avoid payment.

No Denial of Debt.

"We have never considered it," he continued, "and Americans never have believed that we refuse to recognize our debt. I defy anyone to say that France ever has made a gesture of denial on the debt."

The proposed European security pact, Briand said, must be kept within the framework of the peace treaties, and if Germany wished to be associated in the pact, she must correct her omissions in fulfillment of the treaty terms. Answering a lament that the three-power pact which President Wilson signed was never enforced, the foreign minister said:

"We must not tax the United States with this. In reality, the attitude of the United States conformed entirely with its constitution."

ITALIAN AMBASSADOR DISCUSSES DEBT TO U. S.

Washington, May 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—The question of Italy's debt to the United States was brought to the forefront today by a visit to the treasury of Baron G. de Martino, the Italian ambassador, who talked over the whole subject of the Italian obligation of $2,138,542,000.

While the conference was devoid of concrete results, it marked the first step by Italy with respect to her debt and initiated conversations which treasury officials hope will proceed into actual negotiation of funding terms. The ambassador conferred on hour and a half with Secretary Mellon and Under-Secretary

NEGRO CONVICTED IN JAMES SLAYING

Jury Returns Verdict After Only 25 Minutes' Deliberation—Appeal Is Set for Today.

Charles Walton, negro, Tuesday afternoon was sentenced to die June 26, in the electric chair for the murder on January 7 of Fred James, Judge W. E. H. Seary, of Griffin, sitting in Judge Howard's division passed sentence at 4:55 o'clock after the jury had debated the case only 25 minutes.

Appeal for a new trial will be filed this morning, attorneys for the condemned man announced.

Authenticity of an alleged confession by Walton was attacked Tuesday afternoon by defense attorneys.

James, who was manager of the top department of a local motor company plant here, was slain with an ax on the night of January 7, his mutilated body being found the next day in Lowe's alley. Robbery was supposed to be the motive.

The ax with which it is alleged the killing was done was exhibited in court. Walton was declared in his statement to the jury he repudiated the alleged confession, saying he can

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK

As Seen by—
Pierre Van Paassen

New York, May 26.—After buying the Astor mansion Ben Winter has also acquired the Vanderbilt castle. And yet it was only 20 years ago that Winter sat on one of the benches in Seward Park in the East Side waiting for a job.

In those days when there were no trade unions, painters and carpenters spent their mornings on the benches in that park and waited till some one came along to give them a job. The place was a sort of labor exchange. Here's where Winter got his first job at 20 cents an hour. The money involved in the two big transactions runs close to 30 millions.

In a Japanese restaurant over on Thirty-fourth street they serve all the food raw. You are supposed to drop in there when you are in a rather savage mood, I presume. Fish is served raw and soup is eaten with chop sticks. The only course that can be eaten prepared is veal. But you must do the broiling yourself. A small burner is brought to the table and you can try your hand at turning the spit.

"Years ago," Fanny Brice told me, "I said to myself when I stood in the lobby of one of Belasco's theaters: 'Fanny, your picture is going to hang here some day.' When Mr. Belasco called for me a few weeks ago and said: 'Miss Brice, I have had my eye on you for months,' I told him 'I've had mine on you for 20 years.'"

Frederick William Hart, who for years filled the position of "Wild Man From the Jungles of Borneo" in the circus, has retired to his country home in Jersey. Henceforth he'll devote his time to gardening. Mr. Hart is also a collector of miniatures.

Kelly pool has always been considered the game for the small town in the open spaces. But many of the high-brow cynics and literati of New York are to be counted among its most ardent devotees. Drop in any of the pool rooms round Park Row and you will see the shining lights of journalism bent over the green table. "F. P. A." Irvin Cobb, Brown, Young, they're all there some time or other.

Benjamin de Casseres, author of "Mirrors of New York," has escaped from Hollywood long enough to be the guest at half a dozen receptions in his honor.

At the Newspaper club he answered my queries in regard to the so-called wild life of Hollywood with the reply: "Bunk!" "Everybody works hard. To see the crowds streaming through the studio gates early in the morning is like the scene around any factory. People are too busy making pictures. Once in a while they go on picnics to see the California scenery. And the leading stars are total abstainers."

There is a zymbalon player in Moskowitz's restaurant who plays the most blood-stirring Gypsy melodies. He is a Rumanian and has been offered handsome bounties to leave the East Side. The most remarkable thing about this zymbalon concert is the piano accompaniment. He is blind. Yet that does not prevent him from playing these temperamental Gypsy songs with the exact rhythm and feeling.

Conrad Berocovic, the Gypsy story writer, comes often here to get flooded with inspiration. In fact the restaurant is the theme of one of his books. Joseph Schildkraut was tackling a huge Rumanian beefsteak over in a corner when I called.

Bribe Charges Take Spotlight In Poison Case

Plots and Counterplots Over-shadow Trial of Poison Murder Case.

Chicago, May 26.—A bitter squabble over charges of bribery of witnesses and jury fixing has overshadowed the trial of the charge of murdering Billy McClintock. All other issues at stake in the case are submerged as the state's attorney's office and Shepherd's lawyers charge plot and counterplot, while neutral observers wonder whether legal practice assumes every man venal until proven innocent.

With the Shepherd trial more than a week old, the task of selecting a jury is apparently deadlocked at the point reached the first day. On that day three veniremen were chosen. They were rejected the following day, while charges of jury tampering flamed. Once a panel of four jurors was chosen, it was broken Tuesday when Harold Pillar said that he had formed an opinion, and was dismissed. The headline of nine days ago stands for Wednesday morning—"nine more jurors to be chosen." A third panel of 100 veniremen has been called.

The state has exhausted nine of its

HOPE REVIVED FOR AMUNDSEN PARTY SAFETY

No Appeal for Rescue Expedition Will Be Made by Explorer's Lieutenants Before Friday.

SUCCESSFUL FLIGHT IS GENERAL OPINION

Delay in Return of Fliers Holds Number of Brilliant Possibilities, Declare Amundsen's Aides.

BY JAMES B. WHARTON.

Special Correspondent of The Constitution and the N. A. N. A.

Kingsbay, Spitzbergen, May 26.—(By Radio from Steamer Farm.)—No appeal for a rescue expedition for the Amundsen-Ellsworth polar fliers will be made by his lieutenants at the Spitzbergen base before Friday of this week. This was decided at a conference of all the members of our base party today.

With an almost miraculous clearing away of all adverse weather it was agreed that we should give the fliers a full week before we began to entertain serious fears.

Absence Is Puzzling.

The continued absence of the explorers is puzzling, but there is no reason yet for abandoning hope of success. This was the consensus of opinion.

In fact to these men familiar with Amundsen's personality and career, the delay holds some brilliant possibilities. It may mean, they declared today, that the fliers have had a success greater than has been hitherto imagined.

The most interesting theory developed at today's conference was that considerable land may have been discovered around the pole, perhaps an archipelago or group of islands rather than a continuous continent. In order to lay valid claim to this land for Norway, the discoverer must actually stand upon it.

When Amundsen visited the South Pole, he spent three days there in order to complete his observations. Why, therefore, should he not spend fully as much or more time in the vicinity of the North Pole? He was so anxious to make certain he had reached the southern extremity of the globe that he scattered his party of five, and had each man take open observations at various spots. If he was so carefully there he would certainly be equally painstaking now.

Interested in Data.

Ellsworth, the American member of the expedition is more interested than any of the others in scientific results of the flight. He would wish to spend all possible time collecting data of geographic, meteorological, natural and economic value.

Professor Bierkness, our chief meteorologist, said today that, on a basis of his completed data regarding wind and weather, he is able to state positively that the weather over the polar cap has been favorable ever since the hop-off, in spite of several periods of mild unpleasantness around Spitzbergen. Bierkness added, it is unbelievable that any irredeemable catastrophe has happened to both planes. Either everything has gone through

FILIPINOS SUBDUED MORO REBEL BAND

Seven Killed in Attack on Fortress, Says Report of Province Chief to General Wood.

Manila, May 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—Governor General Leonard Wood today received a dispatch from Major Johnson, governor of Lanao province, announcing the successful assault of the fortress from which Sultan Raya and other Moros have been defying the authorities for some months.

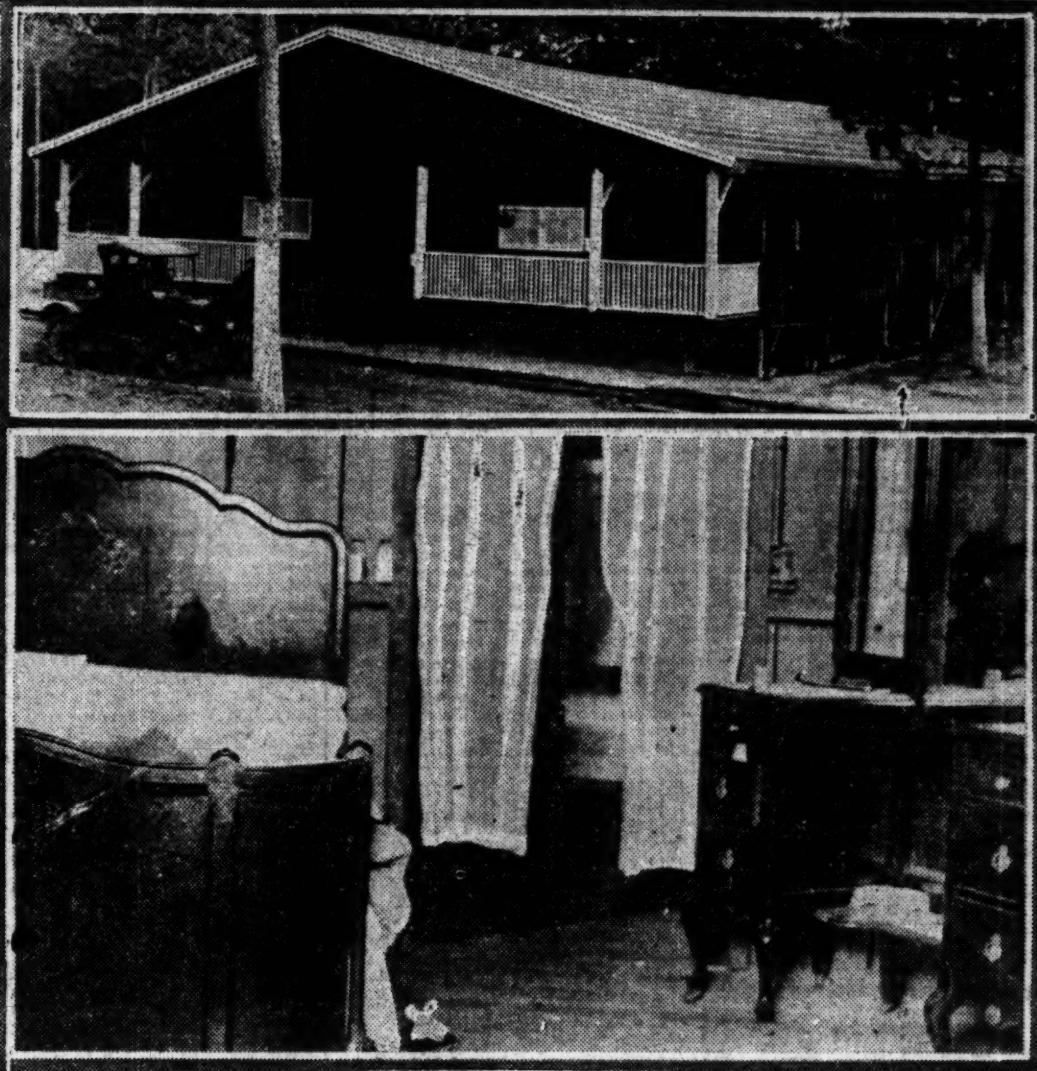

A preliminary shelling with field guns and mortars, the fortress was stormed by the constabulary. Seven Moros are known to have been killed. Some escaped. The constabulary suffered no casualties.

The fortress was destroyed. Two naval hydroplanes made a useful demonstration without actually bombing the fortress.

Coca-Cola Executives, Asked by Governor Walker To Aid Drive, Buy Large Number.

Purchase of 10,000 Confederate Memorial coins certificates by the Coca-Cola company was announced late Wednesday, information reaching this city in a telegram to Governor Clifford Walker from New York, where the executive committee held a meeting.

They instruct me to thank you for your personal interest in calling this matter to their attention. The Coca-Cola company will purchase 10,000 coins in order to assist in furthering this splendid and magnificent undertaking."

TWO WEEKS' FAST ENDED BY GEORGIA "GOSPEL WORKER"

Montgomery, Ala., May 26.—P. A. Trawick, "Gospel Worker," of Donaldsonville, Ga., ended a two weeks' fast here late today at the home of a friend when he was permitted to partake of a small quantity of warm milk. Trawick, who said he began the fast in obedience to a heavenly message, was discovered by officers on the tenth day of his fast in a deserted shanty near Catoma Creek station, five miles from Montgomery.

He was carried to the county jail where he continued to refuse food. Later he was removed to the home of a friend.

OLDFIELD TO TAKE PLACE OF SHAVER

Arkansas Man Is Said To Be Acceptable as Committee Head to Democratic Leaders.

Washington, May 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—Reports were current here today that Clem Shaver, of West Virginia, was preparing to step out soon as chairman of the democratic national committee and that Representative William A. Oldfield, of Arkansas, the present chairman of the democratic congressional committee, had been agreed upon as his successor.

Party leaders, meanwhile, are planning to have a meeting of the committee, probably within three weeks. Information that a compromise had been reached on the democratic national chairmanship leaked out, coinciding with the reports.

Lepers Will Be Cheered SEVEN CRUISERS TO STAGE PARADE PAST MOLOKAI By Sight of U. S. Fleet

BY ARTHUR F. DEGREVE.

Aboard U. S. S. Seattle, Lahaina, Maui, T. H. May 26.—Words of cheer have been sent to the 800 prisoners on the lonely leper island of Molokai, and a portion of the United States fleet will steam within sight of the colony, which so rarely gets a glimpse of the outside world.

Admiral Robert E. Coontz has granted the request of the island lepers, and it has been announced that seven light cruisers will be dispatched to parade before Molokai.

A navy seaplane recently made a landing near the leper settlement, and scores left sick beds and dragged their scarred bodies to see, for the first time, that which to them was a miracle—the machine which flew.

NEW YORK CHURCH IS GIVEN REBUKE BY PRESBYTERIANS

Belief in Virgin Birth and Other Biblical Miracles Declared Necessary for Ministry.

Columbus, Ohio, May 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—The entire modernist-fundamentalist controversy in the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America came to a sudden and dramatic climax in the denomination's general assembly here today.

The governing body of the church held that affirmation of the virgin birth and other biblical miracles is a necessary qualification for one to enter its ministry. It rebuked the presbytery of New York for licensing ministers who do not so believe and remanded two such cases for settlement in conformity with the stand.

The modernist element in the presbytery immediately offered statements asserting that the presbytery itself is the sole agent in determining qualifications of ministers and declaring it would continue to "stand on its constitutional rights."

Final Decision Postponed.

In the face of an apparent spirit of rebellion among other liberals in the gathering, Dr. Charles R. Erdman, moderator of the assembly, offered a resolution which provided for the appointment of a commission of 15 to study the entire issue and report back to the next general assembly.

It was adopted by an overwhelming vote, thus postponing for another year final settlement of the issues involved. The resolution asked for the commission to "end that purity, peace, unity and progress of the church may be assured."

The direct stand on liberal belief on the virgin birth came in the complaint of Rev. Albert D. Gantz, of New York, against the synod of New York, regarding the licensing of Henry P. Vandusen and Cedric O. Layman by the eastern presbytery.

Held Presbytery Erred.

Vandusen and Layman did not either deny or affirm belief in the virgin birth. The permanent judicial commission of the assembly, which tried all the cases, and whose reports were accepted in all instances, held that the New York presbytery erred in licensing the two and reversed the finding of the synod which upheld the former body.

ANDERSON SEES 'MISCHIEF-MAKER' IN BOARD AFFAIR

Final Technicality in Mandamus Which Reinstated Chairman Holder To Be Removed Today.

Macon, Ga., May 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—W. T. Anderson, of the state highway board, tonight stated:

"There is evidently a mischief-maker in the office or near at hand. Yesterday's article in the papers indicated a strained effort to make it appear that the chairman of the highway department was going to red-headedly dig into the minutes of the board to see if there had been done anything that he could object to."

"As a matter of fact, after the meeting of last Saturday, Mr. Bennett, who has been the directing head of the department in the absence of the chairman, said to Mr. Holder that he did not deem such a suggestion as necessary, but that the board would be pleased to have the chairman take the minutes and read them over at his convenience, so as to acquaint himself with all that had been done by the board in his absence, and if there appeared to be anything that he didn't understand or approve that the board would be pleased to open the matter for his consideration. The chairman bowed his acknowledgments of the spirit of the suggestion, said he would do so, and that appeared to be the end of the matter."

The newspaper story that the chairman was pawing the air is probably an exaggeration. Inasmuch as the board had to be unanimous on everything that was done, only two members acting, the status quo obtaining in the event there were division, it may readily be seen that in the event there is anything objected to by the chairman, upon having the matter reopened and the objections registered by him, the probability is that the previous action of the board would be reaffirmed and that would be an end of the matter. A majority of the board controls.

"As to the payment of the attorneys employed by the governor, and also the auditors employed by the governor, and which have been paid by the highway department, it appears from the printed statements attributed to the chairman that he protests against this, inasmuch as he paid his own attorneys and the state had an auditor who was there for the purpose of auditing the

BOYKIN IN CHARGE AS SUICIDE THEORY IS THROWN ASIDE

Murder Charged to Mr. and Mrs. Victor Curtis, Miss Marie Welsh and Ed McConnell.

VARNADOE KILLED SELF, SAYS WOMAN

Brother of Slain City Fireman Obtains Murder Warrants—McConnell Is Sought.

With three persons under arrest charged with murder and a fourth being sought on the same charge, investigators of the office of Solicitor General John A. Boykin Tuesday night began an exhaustive investigation of facts surrounding the death of Howell Varnadoe, young city fireman who was slain by a pistol bullet under mysterious circumstances at a road house on Adamsville road, early Tuesday morning.

Those under arrest are Mrs. Maud Curtis and her husband, Victor Curtis, who conduct the Curtis Lodge roadhouse, and Miss Marie Welsh, of 351 Courtland street, one of the party of four persons who visited the roadhouse in the early hours of Tuesday morning.

Ed McConnell, well-known singer, another member of the party, has disappeared and could not be found Tuesday night. Mrs. McConnell is visiting in Florida and McConnell had just returned. Attaches of the Fulton tower stated Tuesday night that they had been informed that McConnell would surrender this morning. Miss Olga Crawford, third member of the joyous but fateful party, was not named in warrants charging murder sworn out late Tuesday afternoon by L. C. Varnadoe, Jr., brother of the dead man.

Solicitor Takes Charge.

After county and city policemen had worked on the case for about 12 hours, Chief Investigator Glenn Miner and Investigator Marvin Baker, of the solicitor-general's office, and Detective Hugh Brown, of the city force, Tuesday night assumed official charge and questioned a number of persons with reference to the case Tuesday night.

While the investigation was continued in strict secrecy, Chief Investigator Miner told Constitution representative late Tuesday night that he strongly doubted stories of sudden and unheralded suicide on the part of Varnadoe related by others present at the roadhouse party.

"It looks like a plain killing to me," he stated bluntly.

The investigators announced they will continue their investigation this morning when additional persons, who have information bearing on relations of the principals, will be quizzed and when it is probable that the four persons charged with murder will be grilled.

Chief Investigator Miner also announced that when the Fulton county grand jury convenes Friday, indictment of "one or more persons" will be asked charging murder. He de-

BERLIN OPENS WAR ON SECURITY PACT

BY ERIC KEYSER.

Berlin, May 26.—Rising opposition to the proposed European security pact is developing here, especially since the Germans have learned of the terms France insists must prevail in such a protocol.

The nationalist diehards have passed a resolution expressing anxiety over the security negotiations and declaring that Germany must not set any demand for voluntary concurrence with the "Versailles robbery." The nationalists insist that despite their participation in the government they must uphold "the empire of Bismarck."

Will Offer Opposition.

Neither governmental nor popular policy is represented by the nationalists, but there is ample evidence that Germany will oppose a number of points which France considers essential to a guarantee pact. German officials reacted quickly to the terms of the note which France has drafted for dispatch to Berlin, and which became available in Paris Monday.

First, it is stated here that the fate of the security pact must depend on how the allies fulfill their obligation to evacuate the Ruhr and Rhineland. France has maintained that for the time being at least she must preserve her rights there.

Second, the French demand that the pact be subordinated to the Versailles treaty would mean that Germany must reaffirm her Eastern frontiers. This Germany refuses to do, for she still declines to see any justice in the loss of a part of Silesia and the enlargement of Polish territory at German expense.

Slight Hope for Success.

So long as France insists on formal German adherence to these boundaries, there appears slight hope for success of the guarantee pact.

The Anglo Press in Berlin is overlooking no opportunity to arouse opposition to the pact. Dispatches from Rotterdam, in the Ruhr, are published, charging that the French are reviving their "pin prick" policy against the Germans. The French have increased official red tape, these dispatches say, and are making indiscriminate arrests.

CHINESE BANDITS SEIZE OIL COMPANY OFFICIAL

Hongkong, China, May 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—M. Rasmussen, local manager of the Asiatic Petroleum company at Kowloon, in the province of Kwangtung, and his wife were seized by bandits while traveling in a motor boat on the West river, says a dispatch received here. M. Rasmussen's wife was released, but he was held. His nationality is not given in the dispatch.

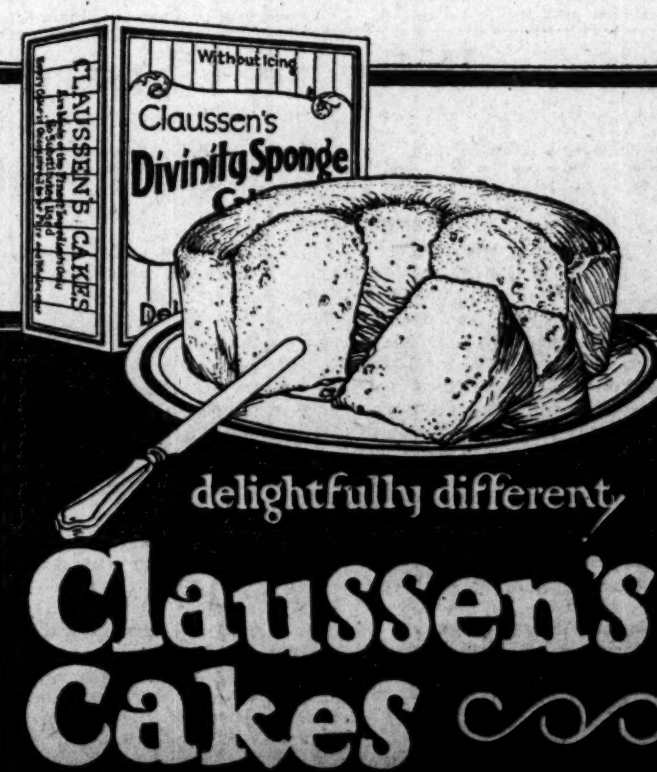

Decidedly better!

The difference in the quality of cakes is greater, we believe, than between any other foods.

Just as one housewife can bake better cakes (even using the same ingredients) than other women, so CLAUSSEN, with the skill developed through three generations of intelligent baking has learned to make cakes as no other baker can.

And nowhere is this difference more pronounced than between Claussen's Divinity Sponge Cakes — and other bakers' sponge cakes.

Insist on getting these better cakes—Claussen's!

Crack Limited Loses in Race To Speed Boat

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

New York, May 26.—Gar Wood twice literally swapped horses in the middle of the stream today and beat the running time of the crack train of the New York Central lines, the Twentieth Century Limited, from Albany to New York city. He used two of his speedboats to do it, changing from one to the other at high speed down the Hudson river. The powerful motors of the Baby Gar IV, overcame fate and circumstance in the roaring downriver race speeding to victory at the rate of 46.5 miles an hour. On the Hudson river's east shore the first of the train's four sections, in sight of the racing boat's crew at virtually all times sped Manhattanward at an average clip of 39.94 miles an hour.

Elapsed time for the Baby Gar IV, was two hours and 8 minutes for the trip, approximately 138 miles. The Century's time for the trip—142.2 miles in this case, as its terminal was at the Grand Central station, while the boat's was at Eighty-Sixth street, was three hours, thirty-nine minutes.

Start Is Confused.

The contest started in confusion when the Century's first section shrieked out of Albany 40 minutes ahead of schedule, catching the Wood boats, the Baby, IV, and the Baby Gar V, with engines cold. Because of this pre-schedule start, the train had to do considerable "loafing" on the trip, although on some stretches it traveled at a 58-mile-an-hour rate and on more than one occasion was ahead of the racing boat. The Century took 3 hours and 36 minutes to make the track it ordinarily makes in 3 hours and 9 minutes.

Allowing the Century five minutes for a change from steam to electric locomotive at Harmon the speedboat beat the train's time 35 minutes. Had the Century run on schedule, Wood's margin of victory would have been but six minutes. His time was 18 minutes slower than that made by Richard F. Hoyt's speedboat Teaser in a test run up the Hudson to Albany, last Wednesday.

Train Wouldn't Race.

The event was called a "race" although the Century adhered strictly to the rules of the road.

Mrs. Gar Wood and a party of friends watched the progress of the contest for a rear platform of the Century.

It was from this vantage point that Mrs. Wood saw her husband too daring things in his determination to overcome circumstance. At Harmon his Baby Gar IV, which he was piloting, was trailing the Baby V, in charge of his brother, George. So he signaled George to slow down and with the boats still driving ahead at a brisk rate, he leaped to the Five's deck, believing that craft's engines to be running more smoothly than those of the Four. George jumped to the Four. But at Poughkeepsie the Five snapped a motor valve and again the pilot's hazardous exchanged boats. Precious minutes were lost in the double exchange.

Charles F. Chapman, editor of Motorboating, who was official observer and timer, in an official report of the race stated that the Baby Gar IV maintained an average pace of 42 miles an hour. The elapsed time of the boat for the run was 2 hours and 58 minutes, according to Chapman's figures while the train, assuming it started with the boat, took 3 hours and 36 minutes. Chapman calculated the total of such cases to 236 since January 1.

NEW TRIAL DENIED IN WRIGHT CASE

GREENSBORO, Ga., May 26.—Judge J. B. Park late today refused to grant a new trial to T. E. Coggeshall and F. W. McClellan, convicted of the murder of W. C. Wright at Eatonton, Ga.

The two youths have been sentenced to die in the electric chair on May 29, having been tried and convicted in Putnam county several weeks ago.

Their companion, S. J. Scarborough, who was convicted of murder and sentenced to life imprisonment upon the jury's recommendation for mercy has begun his sentence on a Georgia convict farm.

The defendants were represented by attorneys Branch & Howard, of Atlanta. Solicitor General Joseph Duke, of Eatonton, represented the state at the hearing today.

The new trial plea was based on allegations that jurors had made statements as to the boys' guilt, also exceptions were taken to certain parts of the trial judge's charge.

Immediately after the appeal had been denied, defense attorneys filed a bill of exceptions and announced their intention of carrying the case to the supreme court. This automatically delays the execution of the two boys which was set for Friday. The hearing consumed less than an hour.

Dry Officials Plan Extension Of Rum Drive

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, May 26.—Extension of the operations of the dry fleet to the west coast and the northern lake front and then a converging movement upon liquor law violators up the inland rivers, is planned by prohibition officials.

Commissioner Haynes asserted today that "many problems were being worked out" which he declined to discuss on the ground that "a little premature publicity might destroy months of planning and hard work."

New Dry Navy.

E. C. Yellowley, chief of general prohibition agents, announced that a fleet of 12 fast chasers would be ready within 30 days to reinforce the Detroit river forces, operating between Lakes Erie and Huron. The situation there was described as serious, with from 30 to 40 boats needed to furnish an adequate patrol.

Mr. Yellowley said that four 35-knot chasers were under construction and others are being repaired to build up a "land" fleet as an auxiliary to the coast guard. One boat on the Mississippi river around Memphis, he declared, was doing effective work against island moonshiners and smugglers.

Conspiracies Uncovered.

An illustration that the land forces are doing good work, Mr. Haynes said, is shown in statistics for April, when 81 conspiracy cases were reported, establishing a monthly record this year and bringing the total of such cases to 236 since January 1.

He declared the large number of conspiracies uncovered was the most significant feature of the general prohibition agents' campaign.

"For some time," he said, "this class of violation has been concentrated on, but because of the length of time required to work out a conspiracy charge, ranging from six months to two years, the real results are just now beginning to be seen."

CHICAGO "U" HEAD CLAIMED BY DEATH

Dr. Ernest De Witt Burton.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Chicago, May 26.—Ernest DeWitt Burton, 60, president of the University of Chicago, died this morning at the Presbyterian hospital.

Dr. Burton had been associated with the university for 32 years, since it was established. He did not become president until two years ago.

Peritonitis, which developed incident to an illness of intestinal cancer for which he had twice been operated on in recent weeks, caused death.

Dr. Burton was born February 4, 1856, in Granville, Ohio, the son of a Baptist minister.

CONFESSED SLAYER OF MISSISSIPPIAN MUST FACE TRIAL

Meridian, Miss., May 26.—Patrick Donahue, who pleaded guilty to a charge of murder in connection with the death of Maurice Rush, DeKalb barber, on May 2, will be tried Friday morning at DeKalb separately from Gus Lang and George Harrison, who, likewise charged, entered not guilty pleas. The court refused to accept Donahue's plea. The date for the trial of Lang and Harrison has not been set.

It is understood they discussed particularly the recent disposition of Belgium, Italy and other smaller countries to jockey for time before entering into direct negotiations.

Previously it was learned at the white house that President Coolidge is not disposed to involve the United States in a western security pact such as is being discussed in Europe.

Whether this conference precedes some important move by the United States could not be learned definitely. However, Borah remarked significantly after the conference that he was confident the United States would maintain a firm stand on the debt question.

Washington, May 26.—President Coolidge held an unscheduled conference with Senator Borah, chairman of the foreign relations committee, regarding European debts late Tuesday.

Law Forces U. S. To Reject 1,800,000 Gallons Liquor Offered in Sale Proposal

Some Prohibition Officials, However, Favor Purchase of Supply as Best Means for Control.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, May 26.—Proposals of Park and Tilford to sell to the government at cost the 1,800,000 gallons of old Overholt whisky which the concern has just purchased would be accepted if some prohibition officials had their way because they believe that government dispensaries for medicinal whisky would provide the best method of control.

Congress has given no authority for such dispensaries, however, and until it does the proposal probably cannot be accepted.

The purchase of the 1,800,000 gallons, the largest transaction since federal prohibition, also directs attention to a big problem which the government is beginning to think about—that of resuming the distillation of whisky for medicinal purposes, 20,000,000 gallons on hand.

Some 20,000,000 gallons are still in storage from pre-Prohibition days. This is being sold on prescription at the rate of 2,000,000 gallons a year.

indicating that the supply, at normal rate, would hold out for about 10 years. But whisky for medicinal purposes should be aged in wood at least six years and preferably longer. So before long, decision will have to be made as to whether to start distillery operations in order to allow the new supply time to age before it will have to be used.

The Willis-Campbell beer act gives the commissioner of internal revenue power to permit resumption of distillation whenever, in his opinion, it is necessary to insure a supply of medicinal liquor. Before long, pressure will begin to be exerted, and it is suspected that perhaps David Shulte, president of Park and Tilford, was looking ahead to the day when manufacture of medicinal whisky would be necessary when he bought the old Overholt distillery and its stock of whisky.

Alcohol Still Made.

There are some 30 concentration warehouses for whisky, most of them located at former distilleries, like the old Overholt establishment. In these seven-eighths of the supply of whisky is held under guard and doled out by permit for distribution to druggists who sell it on prescriptions. Few of these distilleries have been converted. Most of them apparently are holding on, hoping that some day the government will authorize resumption of distilling. Some 500 others have disappeared entirely since prohibition. Meanwhile, the manufacture of industrial alcohol goes on at some 70 plants, mostly located around New Orleans, Baltimore, and other coast points where they are close to the molasses supply. These are technical distilleries, but prohibition officials have a horror of that word when applied to an active establishment, so they call them industrial alcohol plants. This alcohol goes into hundreds of commercial products, from artificial flowers to varnish removers.

RAILWAY AGENTS MEET AT BILTMORE

More than 150 agents of the Southern Railway system assembled Tuesday at the Biltmore hotel for the annual convention of the Southern Railway Agents' association. The convention will continue through Thursday.

High officials of the Southern who addressed the opening session include Vice President R. B. Pizam, of Atlanta; Vice President E. R. Oliver, of Washington; President of the Southern Railway System, W. H. Taylor, of Washington.

J. S. Parker, of Pinner's Point, Va., is president of the association. Other officers are E. B. Stay, of Charleston, S. C., vice president; G. T. Washington, of New Orleans, chairman of the executive committee, and R. H. Marshall, of Spencer, N. C., secretary.

An elaborate program of entertainment has been planned in addition to the business sessions which will be addressed by nationally known leaders in the railway field.

NEW STATE SANITARIUM PLANS ARE APPROVED

Formal approval of plans for the new $500,000 state tuberculosis sanitarium at Alto was given on Tuesday by the building committee of the state board of health in session at the capitol. The architects, Daniel and Bennett, of Atlanta, were authorized to advertise for bids on construction of the new institution at once. Bids will be opened on July 1 and construction will start immediately thereafter, it was stated.

The new sanitarium will be the most modern in America, it was stated. Plans drawn up by architects represent several years of research work and visits of inspection to the greatest institutions of the kind in the country. The new sanitarium for Georgia was designed so as to take advantage of the latest discoveries of science in the treatment of tuberculosis and will include all modern equipment.

Provision will be made for 200 patients, double the capacity of the present building. There will be a private connecting sun porch for every two rooms and part of the roof will be converted into a gigantic deck for the giving of sun baths.

The old sanitarium will be turned over for the use of negro patients. Building of this new sanitarium at Alto is made possible by the state tax of 10 per cent on retail sales of cigars and cigarettes. The law providing for this tax sets aside $250,000 out of the revenue derived from each of the first two years for this purpose, while the balance of the revenue is to be devoted to payment of Confederate pensions.

Shriners Surprise W. Bayne Gibson On 37th Birthday

W. Bayne Gibson, past imperial potentate of Zarah Temple Shriners and honorary member of the Marietta Shrine club, is 37 years old. He is a surprised man. He also is of the opinion that Weyman Gibson, 2, and Miss Bayne Gibson, 7 months old, his two youngest children, are splendid hosts.

When the past ruler of Atlanta Shriners drove up to his home, 431 Sycamore street, Decatur, Tuesday night, the night of his 37th birthday, he was greeted with one of the most rousing reception ever accorded a Decatur citizen. About 40 members of the Marietta Shriners club formed a reception committee. They rang cow bells, played string instruments and bailed the surprised "victim." He was picked up and carried around on the shoulders of visitors—at least that was the plan of attack, but Mr. Gibson is hefty and some portions of the plan fell through.

As Mr. Gibson drove up to his home the order of the night was given by Len C. Baldwin, president of the Marietta organization, and charge they did. Before the bewildered honor guest could make it to the situation, he was seized by more than a score of men dressed as farmers and wearing overalls, and big sun hats. The only reassuring part of the whole procedure was the occasional appearance of a Shrine fox on the outskirts of the "mob." That saved the day, and he knew he was in friendly hands.

Presents Loving Cup.
Baby Bayne, who was born on a meeting night, seven months ago, of the Marietta club and who was made an honorary life member of the organization, was presented a large loving cup by Mr. Baldwin. She took it, thrust one of the handles into her little mouth and cooed her thanks while nobles cheered. She holds the distinction of being the only female honorary member of the Marietta club. And she appreciates it. She said so Tuesday night in a "roving" speech of response to the presentation address.

Weyman, also is an honorary member of the club, as is his father. The children entertained members of the Marietta group in honor of their father, staging their part of the program under direction of Mrs. Gibson.

The following inscription was engraved on the cup:
"W. Bayne Gibson, member of the Marietta Shrine club, May 26, 1925."

Mr. Gibson was presented a large silver platter by Mr. Baldwin in behalf of members of the Marietta organization, bearing the inscription:
"From the Marietta Shrine club, to Past Potentate W. Bayne Gibson, May 26, 1925."

Noble Pat Mell, dressed as an "east side" merchant, had one of the most picturesque costumes at the party, with a snail, long hat and gaudy, flashy clothing.

Special Musical Features.
The "Hill Billy" orchestra, under direction of Noble George Daniel, furnished music. The lawn was lighted with multi-colored electrical displays and chairs were arranged in semi-circles.

There were two cakes, each bearing 37 candles. One was the work of Mr. Gibson, and sat on the large table in the dining room. It was banked in sweet peas and ferns. The house was decorated with multi-colored displays and chairs were arranged in semi-circles.

Mrs. Gibson, Mrs. Pittman Sutton and Miss Elizabeth Northcutt were the only women with the exception of Miss Bayne, present at the unique party.

Among other prominent nobles attending were: R. J. Hancock, Ralph W. Northcutt, J. M. Austin, E. R. Hunt, M. D. Hodges, M. Doherty, C. E. Power, E. L. Moore, Esmer Ward and W. L. Harris.

Several nobles from Alpharetta also attended.

LIGHT OPERA PROGRAM NUMBERS TRANSPROSED

"The Prince of Pilsen" and "The Gypsy Baron" have been transposed in the schedule of light operas as originally announced and season ticket holders are to be admitted to the two Tuesday by C. B. Bidwell, general manager of the Atlanta Municipal Light Opera company.

A change in dates should not materially affect public interest in the operas, it was stated, as the casts of the two practically identical, with Irene Dunne star of "Pilsen" and other successes, and Charlotte Ryan, of the Metropolitan Opera company, in leading female roles; George Meader, of the Metropolitan; Robert Picken, Thomas Cokey and others in principal masculine roles.

New tickets have been printed for the two with the corrected dates and all those sold in future will bear the proper sequence of titles, as well as of dates. Those now in possession of season ticket holders will be accepted according to date in order to avoid the inconvenience that would be attendant on exchange of tickets, Mr. Bidwell stated.

Rehearsals are in daily progress under supervision of Paul Eisler and Dr. Karl Rossmann, stage directors, and Lewis J. Morton, stage director. The ballet and chorus, composed of 36 young women and 24 young men drawn from the Metropolitan Opera and other talent available in the southern states, is declared to be rounding into form rivaling the best professional companies. Rehearsals have been barred from rehearsals in order that every minute may be devoted to hard, uninterrupted work.

The complete program for the Atlanta season, as re-arranged, according to announcement Tuesday, is: "The Prince of Pilsen," week of June 15, "The Mikado," week of June 22, "The Gypsy Baron," week of July 6, "The Gypsy Baron," week of July 13, "The Firefly," week of July 20, "Sweethearts."

BUDGET COMMISSION MEETING POSTPONED

Governor Clifford Walker Tuesday announced that the meeting of the state budget commission, originally called for next Thursday, had been postponed until June 4. In the meantime, the survey commission, appointed by the governor to make a study of the financial needs of various state departments and state supported institutions, will complete its report and recommendations some time next week, it was stated.

It is expected that the survey commission will have some startling recommendations to make in regard to the definite plan for state betterment. It is the purpose of the governor, it is understood, to incorporate much of the recommendations of this commission in his message to the legislature. The commission is headed by C. Murphy Candler as chairman.

UNIQUE SALE FEATURE AT MATHER BROTHERS

One of the most unique sales plans of recent years will begin this morning at Mather Brothers' Furniture company, when a bonus, equal to one-third of each purchase, will be given customers from furniture of their choice.

The store management will place everything on sale with the exception of Brunswick photographs and radios, articles upon which manufacturers place a specific selling price. The sale will end June 13.

Following an inventory that disclosed a company stock valued at $300,000 in furniture and rugs—just $100,000 more than the officials anticipated—the unusual sales plan was evolved and the additional $100,000 worth of merchandise was stipulated as a bonus.

"It will be a good and had furniture sale—good furniture at bad furniture prices," officials announced in a letter mailed to thousands of customers in Atlanta and adjoining sections.

BUTLER STREET "Y" IN ANNUAL DRIVE FOR NEW MEMBERS

Butler street branch of the Young Men's Christian association is in the midst of a membership campaign which will close Saturday. A number of new members have been secured since the drive opened on May 13.

The goal is 500 members. A. F. Herndon, colored business leader, for the time is paying the memberships of 50 negro boys who are not able to pay for themselves. The annual report of the Butler street branch shows that during 1924 excellent religious, educational, physical and social work was done.

A campaign has been undertaken to pay off a debt of $8,620, the balance due on the entire debt for equipment and current expense. The 1924 financial report shows a deficit of $235.67 between receipts and expenditures, and funds are being raised to clear this.

Among the principal speakers were Great Sachem E. R. McKee, Columbus; Great Junior Saganamore R. C. McCall, Jr., Atlanta; Past Great Sachem George E. Barrett, St. Atlanta; Past Great Sachem Elmer Griffin and Milton J. Daniel, Griffin; Past Sachem J. R. McMichael, Atlanta.

Editor's Charges Of Prison 'Vices' May Be Probed

Dr. Carlo Tresca, editor of Il Martello, Italian newspaper of New York, whose sensational charges of bribery, drug smuggling and other "vices" at the Atlanta federal penitentiary, where he served four months in a one-year term, may be brought back to Atlanta as a witness in the trial of Looney J. Fletcher and Father Thomas P. Hayden, former deputy wardens and Catholic chaplain, respectively.

This announcement was made Tuesday at the office of District Attorney Clint W. Hager and followed publication in The Constitution Tuesday morning of charges of the Italian editor, and a denial, by officials of the Atlanta institution.

"Dr. Tresca probably will be interviewed relative to his knowledge of conditions at the prison when former Warden Albert A. Sartain was head of the institution," Mr. Hager said. "It was at this time that present litigation of the government charging conspiracy to accept bribes was launched. If he knows of any instances of prisoners 'bribe' jobs at this time, he will be asked to come to Atlanta to testify as a government witness."

"We are interested in the prosecution of cases now pending and further than that we are not concerned at the present time. No probe of the 'dope' situation is under way at the present time at the prison."

Sartain was convicted early this year on charges of conspiring to accept bribes from wealthy inmates of the prison, for which he was given the "soft and easy assignment." He was sentenced to serve 18 months in the institution, of which he was the chief official for many months. An appeal is now pending. Fletcher was freed at the same time. Since then Fletcher and Father Hayden have been indicted for conspiring to receive $5,000 from Emanuel Kessler and Morris Sweetwood, wealthy prison inmates.

Hayden is under $1,500 bond and Fletcher is free under $5,000 bond. The case is slated for trial June 22, with Judge Robert Irwin, of Alabama, presiding.

Jeanette Chapman Wins Poster Contest At W. A. Bass School

The pupils of the William A. Bass Junior High school have concluded an interesting poster contest which was undertaken for the Junior Red Cross and Mrs. Louis J. Elsas, chairman of the Atlanta chapter Junior Red Cross, announces that the contest is Jeanette Chapman, of the Bass school.

The judges of the contest were Olat Olson, one of the distinguished artists visiting Atlanta with the New York art exhibit; Mrs. Charles Jerome and Mrs. J. J. Elsas. The award, a $250 gold piece, was made after careful study of all the posters submitted.

The work was done under the direction of Miss Emily Kanter, art director of the school and poster is most artistic. It shows a lighthouse standing on an eminence with the rays of light radiating from the lamp in the tower of the tower, these rays carrying the world's "child welfare" on one either side, while the center of the tower is ornamented with an eagle and a shield. The tower is colored red, white and blue, the rays of light are golden and the base in green, all colors being harmoniously arranged and soft in tone.

Atlanta Girl "Bridesmaid" Applications Fill Mails

After carefully examining photographs of beautiful Atlanta girls which have been submitted in the "Bridesmaid Contest" which The Constitution is conducting in order to find three local girls to appear at the Atlanta theater as bridesmaids throughout the run of "Able's Irish Rose," which begins Monday, judges Tuesday afternoon declared that they believed one, and possibly two, of the winners already had been received.

This, however, may be all wrong. For it is hard for any man to fully realize just how beautiful Atlanta girls are, and despite years of experience in "picking winners," one is going to be fooled by a lack of optimism when it comes to reviewing feminine pulchritude of this city.

And the contest doesn't close until Friday at noon. There are three days' mail yet to be received and examined and no man can tell what diamonds of beauty will be found in those three minutes of loveliness. When the mail boxes are dumped beside the editor's desk he leaves a sigh of pleased anticipation and, for the next hour or two, nothing can be heard from his corner of the office. For they are good looking, all of 'em.

Rules for Entering.
To enter the contest a girl must be over 16 years of age, must be between 5 feet 5 inches and 5 feet 7 inches in height and must be slender in build. Outside of that there are no conditions—except that she must fill out application blank which appears with this story. Send the filled-in blank, together with a good photograph to "Bridesmaid Editor, Care The Constitution," and it will receive every consideration in the final judging.

The three winners will be given a double privilege, each side of which is dear to every girl's heart. For she will appear on the professional stage and will enact the role of bridesmaid. Could anything be more delightful for a normal girl?

Winners will be notified Friday afternoon of their good fortune. They will have to report at the Atlanta theater Monday morning for rehearsal. Costumes will be furnished and they will be thoroughly drilled in their wiles by the stage manager of the company who is an old and experienced trainer of young stage aspirants.

Then they will appear in every performance in Atlanta of Anne Nichols' famous comedy. They will be paid for each appearance.

Show Is Big Hit.

"Able's Irish Rose" is the most remarkable record breaker in the history of the stage. It is now running in New York in its fourth year. It has run for weeks in every city where it has appeared, many of them cities that never saw a show last longer than three days or one week.

It is a simple story but a riot of laughter. It tells the trials and tribulations of an Irish girl and a Jewish boy who wish to marry. First they are married by a rabbi and in quick succession by a Catholic priest.

And, at the wedding at each performance during the run in Atlanta, beginning Monday night, the three Atlanta girls who win The Constitution's contest, will be bridesmaids for Irish Rose and her Jewish sweetheart.

$100,000 Added to Budget For Last Half of the Year At Night Session of Body

City Comptroller West Attacks "Pork Barrel" Methods of Disbursement of Money.

After holding a night session Tuesday to consider financial needs of various city departments the finance committee of council finished up its revision of the January finance sheet by adding more than $100,000 to the budget for the last six months of this year.

Earlier in the day City Comptroller B. Grubbs West, in advocating a budget commission for the city, characterized present methods of making appropriations for the city as "pork barrel" methods. The present method, he charged, brings about a situation whereby political influence decides the amount of appropriation rather than the real needs.

In addition to the $72,000 estimated addition of the committee several other small items for various departments were added which brought the total above the $100,000 mark.

Additional Items.—Additions included $10,000 for new trucks for the sanitary department; $3,200 for an X-ray machine for Grady hospital; $5,000 for repairs to the white section of the hospital, and $8,000 for installation of a new billing system in the city tax office.

Included in the estimated $72,000 addition was $21,000 for the city auditorium and $11,000 for the hospital for contagious diseases. The $21,000 for the auditorium will cover installation of a new ventilating system and $4,000 for the purchase of additional property.

The additions were made after the city had set aside 26 per cent of the anticipated income for school purposes, as required by law. Dr. W. B. Duvall presided at the executive session which began Tuesday morning and ended late Tuesday night.

Virtually all items considered were of a routine kind. The city department were cut as low as possible for their operation without being seriously crippled. Many requests of departments were denied or reduced to a minimum by the committee.

Comptroller West issued his statement during the session of the finance committee which is working on the revision of the January finance sheet. He charged that the present methods of making appropriations by a committee of 12 members should be abolished and the new commission substituted.

"Under the present system with 12 members on the finance committee political influences are the most of the year. The committee were composed of three members," Mr. West said. "This pork barrel method of appropriating city funds is working against the best interests of all parts of the city keeping down a number of needed improvements and stifling many of the city departments."

The finance committee Tuesday was at work considering applications for appropriations amounting to $150,000 which are not included in the present budget. The present budget already amounts to $72,000 more than the anticipated revenue for the remainder of the year. The anticipated revenue for the entire year is fixed at approximately $9,000,000. The finance committee did not finish its work Tuesday but was ready for a night session, which began at 7:30 o'clock.

"If we take the matter of making up the annual fund, one of the hands of a committee of 12 men, all elected from different wards, and each striving to get the most for his particular section and place it in the hands of three men, who are charged with caring for every section of the city equally then I believe we can distribute the city's money more equitably and promote the growth of all sections," he said.

Coolidge Frowns On U.S. Entrance In Security Pact

Washington, May 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—President Coolidge does not think the United States should become a party to the present discussion among European nations, directed toward negotiation of a security pact.

While no such proposal has come before the president in any official way, it can be said definitely he has not changed his opinion that the security matter is a problem which Europe itself must handle.

The administration is anxious to see the security question worked out satisfactorily, and is always ready to be helpful if a practical method of helplessness can be found, but it does not wish to begin political participation in European questions.

EX-SOLDIER HELD IN SLAYING PROBE

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Perryville, Mo., May 26.—(By the Associated Press.)—John J. Carey, 38, surrendered to the sheriff here today and asserted he was the slayer of Dr. William A. Dillon at St. Louis on April 30. The sheriff and prosecuting attorney doubted his story but held the man for investigation.

The man, who said he was a former soldier, declared the killing resulted from a quarrel over narcotics, which he desired to obtain from the physician. His story agreed with findings of an inquest held Tuesday afternoon by Coroner Paul Donohoe, at the funeral parlors of Awtry & Lowndes.

Wilson's widow had a premonition of his approaching death, according to a wire from New York in which she is quoted as saying she had a dream that her husband was ill. He left home after a quarrel with her, the wire said.

An extract from a letter addressed to his wife, which was found near the body, read: "I will be among the missing when you arrive," but gave no reason for his act.

Wilson is said to have retired to his room about 2 o'clock Monday morning and was not seen again until the door was forced open Monday night by hotel officials. He was apparently about 30 years old.

The widow of the dead man was notified Tuesday night by wire of his death and the body is being held at Awtry & Lowndes pending word from her. Mrs. Wilson lives at 6322 Tenth avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Widow of Wilson Had Premonition Of Tragic Death

Donald J. Wilson, of New York, whose body was found Monday night in his room in a downtown hotel, came to his death through poison, taken with suicidal intent, according to findings of an inquest held Tuesday afternoon by Coroner Paul Donohoe, at the funeral parlors of Awtry & Lowndes.

Wilson's widow had a premonition of his approaching death, according to a wire from New York in which she is quoted as saying she had a dream that her husband was ill. He left home after a quarrel with her, the wire said.

COLD WEATHER HITS CROPS IN LAURENS

Dublin, Ga., May 27.—(Special.)—Local showers extending over a period of three days of last week resulted in more optimistic prospects for Laurens county's first tobacco crop of any appreciable size. More than 3,000 acres planted to tobacco suffered greatly from the drought which gripped the section for a considerable period, injuring alike, corn, cotton and similar crops.

The county's tobacco agent, M. E. Fagg, has worked indefatigably since early in the year to make the crop a banner one for the section and has had the assistance of competent assistant supervisors and planters who came here early in 1925 from North Carolina. With normal rainfall and warm weather, however, the crop is expected to improve rapidly.

Cotton has been seriously retarded through cold weather, the plant failing in many instances and having to be replanted. In some sections drought has been so severe that seedlings in other sections where seed came through the cold snap retarded its growth. The result is that the cotton will require more effort on the part of planters to combat the boll weevil.

Corn, while getting off to a slow start, has rapidly gotten over effects of the various cool snaps and is not taking on the heavy, growthy appearance necessary for a good yield. Other grain crops are also showing with larger acreage and splendid prospects for a good yield.

program were Miss Anne Brumby, dean of women at the university and former principal of the school, who delivered the address of welcome; Mrs. Roy Collier, Atlanta, who made the response; "Memories of Lucy Cobb," Miss Jennie Smith, Athens; "Some Former University Artists," Mrs. Warren Moise, Atlanta; "Lucy Cobb," Miss Marian Sewell of the 1925 graduating class; "The Ideal Lucy Cobb Girl," Miss Mildred Rutherford, Atlanta.

Monday night the graduating exercises were held which was followed by a reception, which was attended by the attendants and patrons and faculty of the school, bringing to a close another year in this historic school's history.

Miss Mary Stephenson, of Athens and Social Circle, was the first honor graduate and delivered the valedictory address. Miss Mell delivered the diplomas and certificates. Miss Marian Sewell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Sewell, Hephzibah, was the second honor graduate of the class.

Widely Separated Users of Aryan Tongue Together in Melting Pot.

Those people who speak English, Russian, French, Spanish, Welsh, Italian, Irish, German, Scotch or Gaelic, and some of the Asiatic languages, trace their origin back to the old Aryan race.

It has been said that the Aryans came from some point in Asia several thousands of years ago; but some historians now claim that their home was in the southern steppes of Russia; that the Indian and Persian branches went toward the east; the Slavs and Teutons into the German forests; and the Greeks went toward Greece; while the forefathers of the Celts and Romans followed the Danube river into Italy and Gaul.

At any rate, the chief Aryan language now is English, and untold thousands now are being daily educated in its use through the New Universities Dictionary. It is offered to all readers of this newspaper on terms that make it almost a gift. The coupon printed elsewhere in this issue explains how to get it.—(Adv.)

Speed with SAFETY!

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad has a well-earned reputation for safeguarding its patrons and the public; at the same time developing and maintaining a degree of safety in transportation which permits of unexcelled freight and passenger schedules.

Many L. & N. trains could run faster, considerable running time could be eliminated—but the element of safety has always been one of extraordinary concern to the Management, with the result that its list of fatalities and accidents has been very much below the average of American railroads.

In order to get further speed and also greater safety, this Railroad is installing electrically controlled automatic block signals. The signals protect against collision, open switches, broken rails, etc., and at the same time permit running trains closer together than is possible with the time spacing system, thus increasing track capacity with resultant saving of time.

The installation of these automatic block signals costs approximately $3,500 per mile. When completed, the automatic block signal system of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad will represent an investment of many millions of dollars.

Such expenditures demonstrate the truth of the statement that "it takes a lot of money to run a railroad," and that, at present rate of earnings, railroad rates are not too high.

GEORGIAN DIES AFTER CAR CRASH

Jacksonville, Fla., May 26.—J. E. Satterfield, Macon, Ga., capitalist, died at St. Luke's hospital here late tonight of injuries sustained when the automobile in which he was riding was struck by an Atlantic Coast Line train at Baldwin, 22 miles west of here, last night.

Other members of the party, Mrs. Satterfield, Mrs. J. H. Jarvis, Harry Lee Jarvis, 7, and H. K. Bittling, of Summerville, Ga., were seriously hurt.

The automobile virtually was demolished. Satterfield's skull was fractured and he was injured internally.

Other members of the party are expected to recover, hospital interned last tonight. There were no witnesses to the accident, and the injured were brought to Jacksonville by residents of Baldwin who heard the crash.

Governor Walker Makes Plea Before Monticello School for Education

Monticello, Ga., May 26.—(Special.)—Declaring that a just tax system should be enacted to give equal rights to all and that a sentiment must be created to that end, Governor Clifford Walker made an urgent plea for better educational facilities in Georgia in an address before the graduating class of the Monticello High school here tonight. He took for his subject in delivering the literary address to the class, "Building a Greater Georgia."

He made an earnest plea for better educational institutions, health improvement by the establishment of more adequate hospitals for the treatment of all classes of diseases, declaring that one-half of the boys and girls of the state did not have a chance to obtain proper education from lack of funds and opportunity.

His message was a challenge to the citizens of Georgia to uphold the traditions which were brought to the southland by our forefathers, and for which blood and sacrifice had been given by the intrepid soldiers of the past as well as the boys who fought in the world war, that true Anglo-Saxon supremacy might prevail in this, "the land of the free and the home of the brave."

He declared that Georgia's natural resources have never been scratched and that the generations yet unborn were entitled to the best that Georgia might and could give now for the improvement of conditions, religious, educational and civic; in fact, in every way.

A program of better highways and educational equipment should be abreast with other progressive states, and any member of the Georgia general assembly should be ashamed to impede or try to check the forward movement of building a greater Georgia, he declared.

To the present generation had come, he said, a challenge through the years that have passed from our forefathers. "What are we going to do with our opportunities?"

By special invitation from the governor, the local Kiwanis club attended in a body, and to them he pleaded for support of the greater Georgia program, as well as to other organizations of the state.

Dry Forces Plan Campaign To Curb Flow of Liquor Across Canadian Border

New Drive Is Intended To Stop Smuggling by Way of Great Lakes; Detroit Officers Active.

Having driven the rum fleet from Rum Row, Uncle Sam is now tightening up his northern border to prevent liquor smuggling across the Great Lakes and the Canadian frontier.

This new drive is in effect from coast to coast, but particular attention is being paid to the Great Lakes district, where huge quantities of liquor have been smuggled since the prohibition laws were enacted. This activity of federal officers, according to prohibition commissioner Roy A. Haynes, also is designed to meet the increase in operations of the rum-runners which have been noted since the inland flow was dried up on the Atlantic coast. Haynes, who claims that the bootleggers are "on the run" everywhere, says that with less liquor coming in from the coast, it is now possible for the federal forces to concentrate on inland problems, such as large scale conspiracies which have developed for distributing liquor from various sources into various channels.

High federal officials are now conferring at Buffalo on a policy which will effect an armed blockade from Lake Erie to the Oswego shore line and predict that by the end of July they will have this border corked up so tightly that not even a bottle of rum will pass the river. Meanwhile, the most extensive activities are being carried on in the Detroit sector.

Five Dogs Used by Peary In Dash to Pole Are Dead

Portland, Maine, May 20.—The five dogs that hauled the sleds for Admiral Robert E. Peary on the first successful hike to the very top of the earth that mortal man ever made, all died of privation on the little Atlantic island that Peary's dogs were last heard of on May 11, 1911.

The two-day cool snap of Sunday and Monday was the death struggle of King Winter and Atlantica came again sandwich their useless with much balls and fold them away in the attic trunks. Summer has come for a visit of several months, C. F. von Herrmann, local United States weather forecaster, states.

The drop of Tuesday morning fell three degrees short of Monday's prediction—mercury stopping at 51 degrees—mercury before 6 o'clock. The maximum temperature Monday, however, was 63 degrees. The thermometer will register about 80 Wednesday and remain at or around that point for several days, Mr. von Herrmann said.

The mean temperature of 70 degrees for the month of May will fall one degree day short of the average this year. The lowest mean temperature on record for this month during the past 50 years was recorded in 1897, with an average of 64 degrees. Rainfall for this month to date is recorded at 2.00 inches—1.09 inches short of the usual average. No rain is anticipated for several days, Mr. von Herrmann states.

June temperature averages 7 degrees warmer than that of May, registering a general average of 76.1 degrees. This average should be maintained for 1925, with the average rainfall of 3.81 inches, the weather man said.

Mercury in Atlanta has reached the 100-mark only twice in 50 years—July 18, 1897, and June 25, 1914. No extreme weather is anticipated within the immediate future.

NEW YORK CHURCH IS GIVEN REBUKE

was pointed out that ultra-fundamentalists, by the decision, can prefer charges against the presbytery, if it does not dispose of the cases as ordered.

Need Trial By Heresy.

In either event, however, the only way the ordination of Vandusen and Laymen could be revoked would be by a trial for heresy and the grounds for such action would involve heretical statements subsequent to their ordination.

Both the scriptures and the Westminster confession explicitly mention many things not regarded as essential to faith," Dr. Coffin said. "As for instance the creation of the world in six days. If the Virgin birth is essential because it is mentioned in the confession and the scriptures, then it also would follow that the acceptance of the creation of the world in six days would be made essential and the church would become ridiculous in the eyes of the world."

"While the presbytery of New York has been singled out for complaint it is common knowledge that many presbyteries are in the habit of licensing students who do not categorically affirm the Virgin birth. It also is well known that many clergymen in the church hold the same views."

The commission, Dr. Erdman said, will "carry on the fight for another year while the work of the church goes on."

Two other cases in the same class were remanded to the New York presbytery for settlement.

They were based on the licensing of Cameron Parker Hall, and the receiving into fellowship of Rev. Carlos G. Fullinwider, a Baptist minister, 40 years of age, and publishing Sunday school and young people's work, 10 per cent.

H. Shea, of Ramer, Tenn., was elected to succeed A. B. Ham, deceased, on the board, and C. C. Bolton, of Nashville, to succeed L. B. Cornett, of Hopkinsville, Ky.

SOUTHERN PRESBYTERIANS UPHOLD FEDERAL COUNCIL.
Lexington, Ky., May 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—Encountering its first sharp division of opinion, several times during which it found itself in a parliamentary tangle, the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States, after considerable debate today, voted to retain membership in the Federal Council of churches in America.

Beginning in committee whence came the first minority report to the assembly floor, the question of affiliation with the federal council consumed the entire afternoon session after Pensacola, Fla., had been selected as the 1924 assembly site.

The minority report reached the floor first but the advocates of the majority report which favored retaining in the council, had their measure substituted by a rising vote. Opponents then withdrew their objection.

The report of the standing committee on foreign correspondence adopted follows:

"We recommend that overtures from the west Hanover, Va., presbytery and the Meridian, Miss., presbytery calling for severance of connection with the federal council of churches in America be answered in the negative. We recommend that the matter of appropriation to the revised book of church order, finance and budget committee of the assembly."

Directory of worship will be thoroughly revised by the ad interim committee under action of the assembly this afternoon in accepting the report of the select committee on amendments to the book of church order.

The ad interim committee was authorized to rewrite such portions of the directory as the committee may deem necessary, to make it of the largest use of the church.

"Historical statements," prepared by Dr. Walter L. Lingle, of Richmond, Va., was accepted as a preface to the revised book. The sketch showed the book of the church order went back to John Calvin and the committee declared its belief "that its basic principles it goes back to holy scriptures."

Tonight the report of the committee on home missions was before the assembly.

Seven other dogs which had drawn Peary's gear over the bleak wastes of the north on a previous expedition, also were sent to the island to while away their lives from hunger and cold. But they died, too, among them the pet dog of the admiral's daughter.

Teachers commit the instructors unconditionally to the acceptance of and belief in the "Bible account of creation," of the "immediate and infallible inspiration of the Holy Scriptures," and of the "divine mission of Jesus Christ, born of the Virgin Mary as the only begotten Son of God; and that He came from heaven to die as an atonement for sin; that He was crucified and died, and the third day arose from the dead by a bodily resurrection; that He ascended to heaven from whence He will in due time return."

"I believe further that heart resurrection is not, speaking to the Lord Jesus Christ being spiritual regeneration without which the soul cannot be saved," the confession says.

The discussion waxed exceedingly warm when that section of the educational committee's report dealing with athletics was reached. The assembly, after length talks during which Moderator W. F. Morrow, of Warrensburg, Mo., declared that the members were not, speaking to the subject and were "getting nowhere," finally ruled that match games of athletics should continue. No mention was made in the report of football, which memorials had asked to be barred as "dangerous and brutal" and "unfit to be practiced upon Christian colleges."

A resolution of the afternoon session describing the stand the assembly had taken on athletics as "indefinite," and that the official organ of the church be authorized to publish notices nor advertisements of match games in athletics, failed of passage by single vote.

Any possible attempt to inject the subject of "modernism" into the general assembly was side-stepped when the body acted on the report of the committee on education to permit the board of education to select the Bethel college faculty.

Ankling notice of a dearth of ministers in the church, it was resolved to set apart the first Sunday in August "as a day of prayer asking the Jehovah to call men into the gospel ministry."

Report On Tithing.
The report of the committee on tithing and budgeting, fixing the apportionment for 1925 as follows was adopted: Missions, 35 per cent; education, 25 per cent; ministerial relief, 20 per cent; tithing and budget, 10 per cent; and publishing Sunday school and young people's work, 10 per cent.

H. Shea, of Ramer, Tenn., was elected to succeed A. B. Ham, deceased, on the board, and C. C. Bolton, of Nashville, to succeed L. B. Cornett, of Hopkinsville, Ky.

SOUTHERN PRESBYTERIANS UPHOLD FEDERAL COUNCIL.
Lexington, Ky., May 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—Encountering its first sharp division of opinion, several times during which it found itself in a parliamentary tangle, the general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States, after considerable debate today, voted to retain membership in the Federal Council of churches in America.

Beginning in committee whence came the first minority report to the assembly floor, the question of affiliation with the federal council consumed the entire afternoon session after Pensacola, Fla., had been selected as the 1924 assembly site.

The minority report reached the floor first but the advocates of the majority report which favored retaining in the council, had their measure substituted by a rising vote. Opponents then withdrew their objection.

The report of the standing committee on foreign correspondence adopted follows:

"We recommend that overtures from the west Hanover, Va., presbytery and the Meridian, Miss., presbytery calling for severance of connection with the federal council of churches in America be answered in the negative. We recommend that the matter of appropriation to the revised book of church order, finance and budget committee of the assembly."

Directory of worship will be thoroughly revised by the ad interim committee under action of the assembly this afternoon in accepting the report of the select committee on amendments to the book of church order.

The ad interim committee was authorized to rewrite such portions of the directory as the committee may deem necessary, to make it of the largest use of the church.

"Historical statements," prepared by Dr. Walter L. Lingle, of Richmond, Va., was accepted as a preface to the revised book. The sketch showed the book of the church order went back to John Calvin and the committee declared its belief "that its basic principles it goes back to holy scriptures."

Tonight the report of the committee on home missions was before the assembly.

The anti-more-fruit campaign underway in England discloses that consumption amounts to one apple per person every four days.

Pyorrhea is a disease of the gums—not the teeth

You may take good care of your teeth and still get Pyorrhea. Once Pyorrhea secures a firm hold, pus pockets form, gums become weak and flabby, the teeth loosen and fall out no matter how white and sound they may be.

Forhan's means healthy gums
It contains the right proportion of Forhan's Astrigent, as used by the dental profession in treating Pyorrhea. Forhan's protects the gums, keeps them in a firm, healthy condition, and leaves the mouth sweet, fresh and wholesome. If you don't care to discontinue your regular tooth paste, at least brush your teeth and gums once a day with Forhan's.

Forhan's is more than a tooth paste; it checks Pyorrhea. Thousands have found it beneficial for years. For your own sake ask for and get Forhan's For the Gums. At all drug stores, 35c and 60c in tins.

The five dogs that actually reached the pole in 1900 were shown in a Boston dog show in 1910 and again in 1911. Diaper was rife in the show and Peary's pack was infected. He sent them to Flag Island, a desolate, treeless speck in the ocean off the coast of Maine. Peary thought the place would be ideal for such hardy animals, but they had become domesticated by that time and could not stand the exposure. Furthermore, it is now related, a servant at Peary's home on Eagle Island, whose duty it was to carry food to the pack, went there only twice a week.

King, the lead dog, died first. Dr. Spear, the Portland veterinarian who attended the dying dogs, expressed indignation at the manner in which they were treated.

Immediately following the crash the trolley wire fell on the cars and instantly set fire to them. The wooden trolley also caught fire. Edwards was pinned in the wreck by one of his legs and flames prevented anyone reaching him. Passengers rescued by persons attracted by the sound of the collision, stood by helpless while the trolley, screaming, burned to death.

Two hours after the accident the cars and trolley were a burning wreck and flames had not succeeded in extracting Edwards' body.

FRANCE TO HASTEN PAYMENT OF DEBT

Winston, chairman and secretary, respectively of the American debt commission.

Baron de Martino's mission was understood to have been largely for the purpose of ascertaining Mr. Mellon's views and there was frank discussion of the problems faced by Italy and the law which defines for the American administration the period of delay being included in the final settlement was broached by the Italian envoy as well as the subject of an amortization rate for reducing the principal amount in annual installments, and to both of these indirect inquiries, the American policy of being as lenient as conditions permit was reiterated. Baron de Martino was given assurance that the responsible officials here desire to be helpful and want to aid him in working out an agreement on the basis of Italy's capacity to pay.

Treasury officials regarded the ambassador's visit as of the utmost importance. They were inclined to look upon it as a move by Italy in response to the known attitude of the administration that debt settlements should not be further delayed.

Other conversations between the treasury and Baron de Martino are to follow, but it was intimated that there will be a considerable delay while the information from the ambassador is studied by the officials of his government.

Not Related to French.
The assurance given by Baron de Martino that Italian moves on the funding of that debt were in no way considered to be related to the French debt question produced a great deal of satisfaction at the treasury.

Reports from European capitals to the effect that several debtors of the American government would take no action until the French policy was decided had aroused concern here.

As to the French situation, treasury officials denied today that any communication from present French ministry had been received. This was called forth by statements to Foreign Minister Briand, who also is a member of the commission with Finance Minister Caillaux to study the debt funding problem, that serious conversations were under way with the United States.

MOTORMAN KILLED IN TROLLEY FIRE

Louisville, Ky., May 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—William F. Edwards, 45, motorman, was burned to death in sight of rescuers, another motorman was seriously injured and almost a score of passengers hurt when two interurban cars collided and partly telescoped each other on a 25-foot high trestle near here tonight.

Immediately following the crash the trolley wire fell on the cars and instantly set fire to them. The wooden trolley also caught fire. Edwards was pinned in the wreck by one of his legs and flames prevented anyone reaching him. Passengers rescued by persons attracted by the sound of the collision, stood by helpless while the trolley, screaming, burned to death.

Mother Who Deserted Family 12 Years Ago Plans Return

Chicago, May 20.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Chicago Herald and Examiner today published a story that a mother, known as Margaret Keene, who had left her three babies and her husband 12 years ago is about to return to her family through a letter sent her by the mother of Governor Brewster of Maine.

Unhappy and leaving a letter saying, "It is either this or suicide," the newspaper says Margaret Keene wandered away from her home in Maine. But wandering from her no joy and one night she dreamed that her youngest child, Evelyn, now 13, had died. A waking fearfulness followed the dream and she wrote a letter back home.

It was the mother of Governor Brewster who finally received the letter in Augusta, Maine, because Evelyn was living in her home, says the Herald and Examiner.

"I am a mother too," Mrs. Brewster replied, "and I could not bear to be separated from my children. I have two boys and the younger is governor of this state. I know nothing about the circumstances under which you left home, but let me welcome you back, both to your children and to Maine."

So Margaret Keene is going back home, happier than she has been in 12 years, says the newspaper, knowing that her children are strong and in good care.

A Challenge To the Chivalry of the South

When the United States Government invites us to take one of its official coins, issued by act of Congress as a tribute to the Soldiers of the South, we cannot fail to meet with alacrity this challenge to Southern Chivalry.

This act of Congress was voted for without dissent by Northern and Western Congressmen who are the sons and grandsons of the Union soldiers against whom our fathers and grandfathers were fighting only 60 years ago.

No other government ever paid such a tribute to men who fought against it and the character of the monument is in keeping with the act of our President and Congress.

No such memorial was ever conceived by the mind of man. The Pyramids are crumbling, the Temple of Karnak has fallen, the Parthenon and Roman Forum are in ruins, but the noble figures of Lee and Jackson and Davis and other leaders will stand out 150 feet high, extending across the face of Stone Mountain for a thousand feet, and they will stand there through the ages an everlasting memorial of the valor of our fathers.

Can we fail to put this monument there? Can we fail to meet this noble act of our great Government with a quick and generous response?

Can any of us fail to secure for each of his children and children's children one of these coins, by which the President and Congress of the United States have placed the stamp of imperishable knighthood upon the heroic sons of the South?

Atlanta must rise at once to the full height of the occasion and lead the South in an enterprise for which posterity will hold us responsible.

Atlanta cannot, must not, will not fail.

"BIGGER GEORGIA" MEETING DATES CHANGED BY SIMS

Postponement of the meeting of leading Georgians to be held in Macon May 28, 29 to June 5, 6, was due to the fact that several organizations have dates for meetings which conflict, Mayor Walter A. Sims announced Tuesday.

"We have received letters from business and civic organizations warning us of hearty cooperation in our plans to organize for a bigger and better Georgia and some of the most prominent men in the state will meet with us at Macon in June," the mayor said.

The conference is to discuss several projects, including establishment of air-mail routes and construction of a mountain-to-sea highway.

LIQUOR CAR DRIVER ELUDES CAPTURE AFTER CAR CRASH

When his automobile became involved Tuesday afternoon in a triangular collision at Stewart avenue and Gillett street, the driver decided that things were just a little too hot for him to remain longer with 60 gallons of corn whisky in his car, so he took French leave. The liquor car driver escaped after running a short distance and leaping into a car, which police say was acting as a "steerer."

The car collided with the automobile of Dr. Paul McDaniel, county physician, after striking another machine. Both the abandoned car and cargo were confiscated by Deputy Marshals C. H. Arnold and J. E. Brown, who were passengers in another, which barely escaped being rammed in the collision.

Loose Freight Cars In Runaway Dash Barely Miss Truck

Five heavily loaded box cars broke away early Tuesday afternoon from a string of other freight cars while being switched on the Southern railway belt line, at the Edgewood street crossing, and, after a wild and exciting run onto the main line, struck a derrick just north of Brookwood station. The wreck blocked both of the Southern main lines for several hours.

No inconvenience was caused passenger train service by the derailment, the yardmaster at Brookwood reported, as the wreckage was cleared up before the arrival of any passenger trains.

As the cars hurtled themselves along the tracks, E. W. Warren, of Stone Mountain, truck driver for a local company, of 370 Edgewood avenue, neared the crossing at Boulevard and Tenth streets.

Warren had just driven onto the tracks when he glanced up and saw the runaway cars bearing down upon him, and barely escaped being hit.

MORRISBROWN COLLEGE TRUSTEES IN MEETING

Trustees of Morris Brown college held a session in the college chapel at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning. Dr. J. S. Filipek presiding. Rev. W. B. Lawrence and C. A. Wingfield were appointed secretaries. The devotional exercises were conducted by Dr. J. H. Ward of Allen Temple, and Rev. J. R. Telford, of Rome.

When the board was organized, Bishop Whipple spoke to the members concerning the affairs of the school, the financial end of which, he said, was not altogether satisfactory to him, to the president or the trustees. He had planned to say to the trustees, he said, "There must be a change. Reports have come to me from time to time that the funds gathered in the districts had not been reported as the law of the church and the customs of the conference provided."

The trustees referred kindly to the baccalaureate sermon preached by Dr. S. S. Morris head of the league department of the denomination, at Nashville, on the subject, "The Challenge to Life's Service."

President John H. Lewis read an itemized printed report giving information concerning the running of the school since last May to the previous month. Eight hundred students had been enrolled and a teaching force of 34 composed the faculty, he said. The student body as a whole was conformed to rules and regulations very creditably, the report said.

Fifty-five were recommended for graduation Wednesday morning at the commencement exercises at Big Bethel church, at Auburn avenue and Butler street. Degrees were conferred on 16 people in different sections of the country. The report asked the trustees to grant the school the right to raise the price of board and tuition, which was granted.

The annual association met Tuesday night in the college chapel and was asked to collect $5,000 to aid in erecting the school made known until the board meets this afternoon.

The roll was called and each presiding officer reported the amount of money raised in his district conference. Dr. J. H. McFarlin, of Atlanta; A. L. Samsom, of Savannah; J. A. Taylor, of South Atlanta; J. T. Wilkins, of Athens, and R. V. Thornton, of Marietta, led the state.

The following paid in $100 each: J. A. Lindsay, R. V. Branch, W. J. Williams, W. B. Lawrence, W. A. Fountain, Jr., W. D. Kelley, H. B. Canady, I. G. Glass, O. C. Gray, C. A. Wingfield, John Harmon, John Cooper, P. W. Greathart, J. T. Hall, J. L. Butler, H. H. Ward, John H. Lewis, J. R. Freeland and others.

Ordered to Pay Rums.

In making an itemized report, Dr. L. H. Smith, treasurer, hesitated to give the names of those who had given him checks which had been turned down. The chairman ordered him to do so, and the parties giving such checks in the various conferences were ordered by the bishop to pay the amounts, which were from $50 to $120, to pay the amounts at this meeting.

The annual association met Tuesday night in the college chapel and was asked to collect $5,000 to aid in erecting the school of debt. Professor C. L. Harper is president of the Georgia conference, of Savannah, is secretary. President Davis, of Fanny college, Culbert, made a statement before the board concerning the work. President Lawrence, of the Central Park Normal school, asked the board to increase the facilities of his work by giving him $7,000.

will be made by Judge Richard B. Russell, of the Georgia supreme court. The joint memorial services of the grand lodge, the grand encampment and the Rebekah assembly on Thursday will bring the convention to a close.

An address of welcome by James A. Perry, of the Georgia public service commission, and past grand master, and the response by John Camp Davis, of Rome, past grand patriarch, featured the opening of the grand encampment meeting Tuesday morning. Reports showed the flourishing condition of the order, with large gains in membership during the past year. In the Garden With Burbank

As Reported by Elizabeth Urquhart

PETUNIAS AND VERBENAS.

"Petunias are garden life-savers," I remarked. "What would a newly started garden do without them?"

"Yes," agreed Mr. Burbank, "beginners in the art of gardening generally do not think first of petunias, and if they are careful about color combinations there is nothing more satisfactory."

"These little plants were started in the spring and are now almost ready for blooming, but seeds may be sown for late blooming. Only the best plants should be obtained, the finer varieties having good stocky stems and the leaves large, and set closely on the stems, while the buds are thick and compact. At the end of the summer some of the best plants may be cut back severely, potted and brought indoors for winter blooming."

"Many dislike petunias," I said, "because the old varieties generally ran to magenta, but some of the new ruffled and fringed varieties are lovely enough to convert anyone."

"You would not think the petunia belonged to the Solanum family, which includes so many and varied connections as the potato, egg plant, tomato, sautee cherry, jimson weed, tobacco and tomato."

"The history of this large tribe of 70 families and 1,800 species, would be very interesting if it could be traced back and we could see just where the different plants were influenced by their surroundings, generation after generation, until a new heredity was created and each plant became distinguished by different traits and characteristics."

"And then, Mr. Burbank adds to the problem by producing still more varieties!" I said.

Mr. Burbank smiled and shook his head.

"The petunias may be classed among my 'interesting failures,' for although by experiments produced some striking results and illustrated several points of value in plant breeding, these results were not of practical value, though the new blue petunia and a few others are fine exceptions."

"What plants were crossed with the petunias to produce these hybrids, which were not of practical value?"

"The petunia," explained Mr. Burbank, "was crossed with one of the tobacco plant species. The hybrids at first resembled the tobacco plant almost exactly, but later on they developed varieties in color and a trait in habit like the petunia; some grew tall with large tobacco-like leaves, but the roots were small and delicate more like the petunia."

"This lack of vitality made the hybrids very tender and they succumbed to the cold of the first winter. One of my visitors at that time suggested that the hybrid petunias had been passed out of my hands the variety was lost. It had a fragrance exactly like the trailing arbutus, but even more pronounced, and the color of the flowers also was identical. This was without doubt the most beautiful verbenas ever produced, but the eastern seedsmen who purchased it was unfortunately losing this variety by an untimely fall freeze."

The Love Cycle

BY MILDRED BARBOUR

THE THREAT.

The sight of Davidson with Helen was a staggering blow to Mansfield. He did not stop to wonder how they had met. He only knew that his hand was forced, that he must, at all costs, prevent the man from mentioning his past friendship with Dora Davidson.

It was so long past he could scarcely remember what the woman looked like, that was the tragic part of it to a man who had paid and paid and paid for a moment of folly.

Davidson greeted him with a suave smile.

"I have just had the pleasure of meeting your charming wife, and she has been good enough to ask me to call."

Mansfield fumbled for a reply, but Helen forestalled him by saying:

"Mr. Davidson was just going with me in the car; if you haven't forgotten the Washington reception, where you promised to accompany me, we might all leave now. I presume you are through for the day."

"On the contrary," Mansfield forced an easy smile, "I have several things to do yet and I particularly want to talk to Mr. Davidson. I think you will excuse us, Helen."

She shrugged.

"Oh, very well, I scarcely hoped you would go with me to the Worthingtons. These business men," she told Davidson with a little grimace, "wives don't count. There is always something they have to do when one wants particularly to have an escort."

Davidson made her his courtesy bow.

"I am sorry to say 'good afternoon,' Mrs. Mansfield, but I dare say I had better remain. We are to have a little conference, your husband and I. It concerns the mutual friend I was telling you about," he threw Mansfield a significant glance. "Our friend is in deep difficulties; we want to lend assistance, eh, Mansfield?"

Mansfield inclined his head silently. "Well, I'll be running along then," Helen gave her hand again to Davidson. "Don't be too long, Hal. Remember we are dining out tonight and you always take so long to change. Until next Wednesday, then, Mr. Davidson."

Completely ignoring Jane's presence, she departed.

"I won't detain you any longer today, Mrs. Haynes."

"There are still some letters to sign, Mr. Mansfield."

He made an impatient gesture. "Never mind, they can wait till tomorrow, or better yet, leave them and I will sign them before I go."

She gathered up the letters, put them in the wire basket and laid them on his desk, then, with a murmured "good night," she went out, conscious of the fact that Davidson was smiling in a satisfied way and that Mansfield was white about the lips. She knew that he was in trouble—what, she could not guess, but her heart yearned over him.

When the door had closed behind her, Mansfield turned to Davidson.

"Well?" he asked.

"The former took a cigarette from an elaborately monogrammed silver case and lit it with a careless air."

"Aren't you going to ask me to sit down?"

"That's hardly necessary," Mansfield replied grimly. "We can be very brief, Mr. Davidson. I will tell you in my letter and what I repeated over the phone, I must say again. I can't pay what you ask—that's all there is to it. You have had all my surplus for years. Now I am done! You have asked too much. I can't meet it."

"But you can get it," Davidson said.

BEAUTY CHATS

BY EDNA K. FORBES

Are you things pretty?

YOUR DRESSING TABLE.
Are you dressing table furnishings pretty? If not, they are better hidden, for a lot of ordinary looking brushes and mirrors and such spoiling the appearance of a room, and are quite as convenient and much cleaner if kept in a drawer. Besides, as we tend more and more to compress our lives into tabloid apartments, bedrooms as separate places to sleep and dress in are being changed into living rooms by day and bedrooms only at night. Beds are disguised as day beds or couches, or even those convenient if ugly affairs, a pull-out day-bed, and a dressing table covered with combs and brushes and pin trays and such things is hopeless out of place.

And close pores with very cold water, which by the way, can be made very attractive if they are enameled some bright color. Plain wooden boxes and trays, and brushes might be done in the new lacquer paints which dry hard and dry quickly and come in delicious rose-reds and Chinese reds, yellows and greens. They are easy to apply.

Sara—The preparations you mention is better than a depilatory, but the hair will grow in again. For the dry skin, massage every day with a good cream, and wipe off the surplus and close pores with very cold water. If you use a very small amount of cream before powdering you may not need so much powder.

The new way is to have any sort of convenient low table with a fair-sized drawer, placed like a console table against a wall with a decorative mirror on the wall above it, and on it nothing but a nice-looking covered bowl, which conceals powder, and perhaps a very handsome hand mirror.

Mirrors of gilded wood with enameled decorations of colored flowers, in the Italian style, are very pretty and not expensive, and are quite appropriate in any sort of room where a woman would be apt to sit, and might want to powder her nose or see her hair. A low table like this, with flowers and a bowl and perhaps a mirror, adds to the attraction of a room and does not make it look too much like a sleeping apartment.

If you must economize, you can then use the cheapest and plainest have the powder form in cakes on your skin.

"No, I can't think what is detaining him," he answered. Then, after a pause, he added, "Mary, I don't quite trust that O'Rourke. We shouldn't have trusted him with that money. I should not be surprised if the fellow shows up in his true colors now. He may have absconded with the money."

Mary arose, angrily. "Why, Mr. Taggart," she exclaimed. "How can you say that? Mr. O'Rourke is absolutely trustworthy. And he's—his my fiancé." Taggart looked at her with affected sympathy.

"Yes," he said slowly, "I had observed—with sorrow—that you cared for him. That's why I have said nothing about my suspicions of him before. But I cannot help but feel that you are being deceived in him. Perhaps this day will prove I am right."

After a pause, Taggart, looking at Mary tenderly, said in a soft voice, "Mary, haven't you seen that I am your father's old friend, who has been protecting his interests all these years—I, who now am putting every force at my command into my effort to save your father's life—don't you see that I too, love you, Mary? Why don't you put your trust in me, tried and true friend of your father? Instead of this stranger, of whom we know nothing, this man who even now may be fleeing across the border with the last of your money?"

He seized her hand. Mary resisted him. Taggart went on: "Mary, from the moment you arrived here, I adored you."

Mary interrupted him. "Please, Mr. Taggart," she said, "don't talk like this. I appreciate all you have done and are doing for father and me, but this—well, you have surprised me in no way, and I see it is impossible—my heart is already taken. And I wish you would not cast reflections on Mr. O'Rourke. Oh, don't think me ungrateful to you—but you must see how it is. And now with father in this terrible trouble, and all these worries, I can't think, I can't."

Taggart looked hurt, and said with tender resignation: "There, there, Mary, I understand how you feel. I shall wait until after the trial—and by then you will know that old friends are the ones to trust, for whatever way the verdict goes, you will find me the friend you can depend upon, and the one who loves you."

"I must go back to father," said Mary, preparing to leave. "I will let you know as soon as O'Rourke comes back—if he does." Taggart assured her, escorting her to the door. "And remember, Mary—whatever happens—Toppaz Taggart is the one friend of your father's that you can count upon absolutely."

Half an hour later another visitor came to Taggart's office. It was Buck McLeod. He greeted Taggart triumphantly. "It's done," he told Taggart. "Good work," said Taggart, rubbing his hands enthusiastically. "And did you bring me the envelope?"

"Here it is," Buck interrupted him, handing him an envelope. CHAPTER 17. The Trial of John Marshall. It had been a terrible week for Mary. Terence had not returned. Her faith in him was unshaken, but her heart was heavy with fears that he had been killed in an accident, or by bandits. Taggart had obtained a warrant for his arrest, but the sheriff's men had been unable to find any trace of Terence.

Wounded down with worries over the crisis faced by her sick and broken-spirited father, whom she visited each day in prison, in addition to fears for her missing lover, she was in a frantic state. Taggart continued to pursue her with his advances, and while she managed to put him off, she had to try not to offend him, for so much would depend upon the defense he would put up as her father's lawyer.

Taggart strove to raise himself in her favor, by having his men bring the cattle back to the ranch from the potholes where they had been dry gulched, telling her he had led a terrific battle with the cattle rustlers.

Finally the crucial day arrived—the day of the trial. The courtroom was crowded. All eyes were fixed on John Marshall, the prisoner, looking weak, weary and hopeless, sitting under guard of a deputy sheriff. Mary sat close by, tried to look confident, and to cheer him up. She studied the stern face of the judge, and the expressionless faces of the jury, tensely listening to the arguments. All seemed hostile to her. Even the spectators, it seemed, sided with the prosecution.

The weary hours passed—the wranglings of the lawyers, the drone of arguments, the examining of witnesses, and heated cross-questioning, the rapping of the judge's gavel for order—the dreary routine of justice in operation.

Taggart concluded his defense of Marshall, after a week fight and sat down beside Mary and her father. "I have done all that I could," he told Mary. "We can only wait hopefully now."

She sobbed and said nothing. The prosecutor, a sharp-featured man with a quick and convincing tongue, was addressing the jury. Excessively he assailed the argument of the frail defense Taggart had put up. His words fell like hammer blows upon Mary, and her hope kept sinking and sinking. Her father's face was pale and haggard as he listened to the prosecutor's denunciation.

was Stella Montrose who was waiting for him. He whispered with her in a corner at the end of the corridor. "I've waited long enough," Stella told him. "Come across with the rest of that money—or I'll stop the show—NOW."

Her expression was determined. Taggart was alarmed. "Sh-h-h-h. I've already told you the bank gave O'Rourke a cashier's check for $20,000," he said. "That with the $5,000 cash I already slipped you will make the total we agreed on."

"Well, but give it to me," Stella insisted. "Wait," whispered Taggart. "The check's no good until Marshall's fingerprints are on it. I've told them O'Rourke beat it over the border. We've got to play this right. Just bide your time. Marshall is doomed. When I get his ranch I'll let you in on the game. Don't worry—I'll treat you right."

"I am hopeful, very hopeful," she said, and they parted. The judge finished his charge to the jury and Taggart rushed to the courtroom. The jurors filed out, and the judge dismissed from the bench. A buzz of conversation filled the courtroom as the jurors filed out. Mary's arm rested comfortably on her father's shoulder. He stared before him, silent. Taggart approached.

"I have done our best," he said. "I am hopeful, very hopeful." After an hour of dreadful suspense for Mary and her father, word was sent from the jury room that a verdict had been reached. The judge mounted to the bench, rapped for order, and remained standing as the jurors filed in to their box in the courtroom.

"Mr. Foreman, will you announce the finding of this jury?" the judge droned. An ominous hush fell upon the courtroom. The spectators all leaned forward in their seats breathlessly. John Marshall gripped his chair and waited, rigid and livid. Mary, pale, pressed against him, and stroked his hand.

The foreman of the jury arose and spoke, slowly chopping out his words: "Your honor, the jury finds the defendant, John Marshall, guilty."

The muttered awe that thrilled through the courtroom at the word "Guilty" almost drowned out his last words. The judge beat his gavel upon the rostrum. Marshall had sunk back in his chair in utter despair. Mary arose, her hands clenched, her face filled with terror.

"Of the murder of Black Benwell," the foreman said, "the jury finds the defendant, John Marshall, guilty." Whispering voices buzzed through the room. Mary, her head at first swimming with defiance, in her overwrought state about to fly into the faces of the judge and jury screaming, suddenly subsided, and fell swooning into Taggart's arms.

The judge was rapping for order, and silence once more filled the room. "You have heard the verdict of the jury," he was droning. "The court will pronounce sentence upon the prisoner two weeks from today, and until that time the case is adjourned."

A Reckless Ride. During the critical week preceding the trial of John Marshall, Terence had been held prisoner in a lonely canyon cabin by Buck McLeod and his gang.

The ambush they had laid for him on the day he was returning from the bank at Latigo with the check for the balance of Mary's money had worked. They had caught him unawares, coming down upon him, seemingly out of nowhere, on all sides of him at once, covering him with their guns, and he had been forced to surrender, or he would have been shot to death. Buck had taken from him the envelope he had gotten at the bank and delivered it to Taggart.

He had been constantly on the alert for opportunities to escape, but they kept a double armed guard over him, night and day. "He's a tough customer—we can't take any chances on him," Buck told his gang.

On the day after the trial, Buck returned to the canyon, after a conference with Taggart at the Pico Bar, in a large motor car. "The boss says rush him across into Mexico, as far out of the way as possible," he explained.

Covering him with their guns, they forced Terence, whose hands were tightly bound, into the car. One of them sat on each side of him; Buck took the wheel. He seized the clutch, threw the car into gear, and they started off down the road at high speed.

Buck was a reckless driver. He kept accelerating the speed of the car to its utmost. Snorting and racing furiously, they approached the old wooden bridge across the river. The warning sign on the bridge approach read, "Danger—Speed limit over bridges eight miles per hour."

FISHERMAN BAGS LARGE 'GATORS WITH SHOTGUN

Jeffersonville, Ga., May 26.—(Special.)—Bill Dixon, who lives near Nandy swamp, in Wilkinson county, has quite a reputation as a fisherman. The other night he heard strange noises coming from the dense woods near his home, and at daybreak he shouldered his shotgun and carried a number of heavily-loaded buckets to the swamp.

Upon reaching the stream, he took a seat on a log and soon found his game to be two large alligators, which he killed after shooting them 12 times. The larger gator measured 13 feet and the smaller one nine feet in length.

The hides were removed from the gators and carried to Irwinton where they were sold.

WILSON'S MORTAL BOOSTED BY LAGRANGE

LaGrange, Ga., May 26.—(Special.)—Speaking before more than 100 local citizens at a dinner conference held in the First Presbyterian church here tonight to formulate plans for Troup county's participation in the Woodrow Wilson college movement, Lee B. Wyatt, former member of the Georgia house of representatives, declared this movement the most significant enterprise attempted by Georgia in three generations.

"In building this extraordinary memorial to Woodrow Wilson, Georgia is leading the rest of the nation by 50 years," said Mr. Wyatt.

"No man who reads history can doubt the place time will accord to the name Woodrow Wilson. In another half century he will be as sacred in every household as the name of Abraham Lincoln today."

"History preserves and increasingly sanctifies the names of great teachers, who voice the truths by which our Christian civilization endures. Never before has the world seen such a teacher as Woodrow Wilson, a mortal who spoke imperishable words to the millions where great teachers before him spoke only to thousands."

"His words have been uttered about Wilson, but just as bitter words were hurled at Lincoln by loud, but short-sighted men of his day. These unhappy utterances have long since been forgiven, but each year an increasing number of books are written to more fully interpret and leave the world the man who is certain to be with Wilson. Even his intimate friends are incapable of fully appreciating him now. They are too close to him."

"The little, unimportant things seem just as big now as the great characteristics of the man. Time is needed for the drops to fall away and leave the full measure of the man."

"How proud we should be that Georgia is not waiting for the rest in expressing her appreciation of her great son. Fifty years from now the earth will be dotted with monuments to the great Wilson, but now calmly and without excitement Georgia is building a splendid national memorial here in the state where Wilson himself grew to manhood. The memorial will be granite or bronze, but the type of memorial which is particularly fitting to honor one who was ever a teacher, a splendid college completely dedicated to the study of things for which Wilson stood."

"Some day the grandchildren of the present generation of Georgians will proudly be declaring that their grandfathers and grandmothers helped to found Wilson Memorial college, years before the world even began to really appreciate Woodrow Wilson," Mr. Wyatt said.

C. L. Smith, of Valdosta, a member of the temporary board of trustees of the memorial institution, outlined features of the new college.

Many meetings held. This meeting is one of a series of larger Georgia towns are holding to mobilize Wilson's admirers and disburse the money for the college project. Similar meetings will be held at Rome and Dublin, Wednesday, Columbus, Thursday and Gainesville Friday.

Mr. Shaver said publicly that the suit brought by the Van Patten agency, advertisers, said that publicity in the campaign had been placed in other hands, but that he was entirely familiar with what plans or contracts for publicity had been made.

The suit brought by the Van Patten agency was instituted as a counter action against the committee, which sued the agency for the accounting of $20,000 alleged to have been advanced by the committee for advertising in the presidential campaign last year. The agency claimed that $85,000 was due it as commissions and for advertising under contract.

New York, May 26.—Three more private end-May crop reports were published in the cotton market today but without any appreciable effect on prices. After selling off early to 22.43, October rallied to 22.67, but reacted, closing at 22.50, compared with 22.63 at the close yesterday. Business generally was quiet and fluctuations reflected the effect of comparative small orders in a narrow market. The general list closed barely steady at net declines of 10 to 15 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of 8 to 10 points and sold off to net losses of 14 to 15 points in the forenoon, owing to easier late cables from Liverpool, further reports of domestic mill curtailment after actual curtailment, and indications that yesterday's frost predictions had failed to materialize in the cotton belt.

Market steady at 22.67 for July and 22.64 for December as a result of covering, which may have been promoted by one of the private reports showing a condition of 73.9 and an increase in acreage of 6 per cent, prices eased off some.

After mid-session the market ruled decidedly quiet and prices fluctuated narrowly within the earlier range and mostly near the highs, until near the end when prices eased off slightly on selling on that account. The close showed small net losses for the day.

In addition to the condition report mentioned above two other private reports showed a condition of 73.9 and an increase in acreage of 6 per cent, prices eased off some.

Exports for the day totaled 1,691 bales.

SPOTS IN NEW ORLEANS. New Orleans, May 26.—Spot cotton closed steady and unchanged. Sales on the spot 139; at 21 1/2; low middling 22.60; middling 24.00; good middling 24.60; receipts 701; stock 122,099.

One of the three private crop reports made the condition 73.9, another 75.5, while the third placed it at 76.5. The increase in acreage was 5.7 per cent in the first two reports, and 6 per cent in the third.

The five private reports showed an average condition of 75.6 with an average increase in acreage of 5.4 per cent. Port receipts today 5,067; U. S. port receipts 552,926. Exports to 1,691 bales.

Indictments charging murder in connection with the death of William C. Peace, Atlanta contractor, and others charging the self-confessed lone hand with five counts of robbery and one of larceny of automobiles and one of the transporting of a stolen car from Florida to Georgia, were among the bills returned Tuesday by Fulton county grand jury.

It was announced from the office of Solicitor General John Boyd that Travis is said to have made a clean breast of the whole affair, and wishes to begin as soon as possible the serving of his sentence.

Finish walls and ceilings with

Decomura

This is the really economical pastel finish which, though it dries in a few hours, does not smudge off nor show brush-strokes and does not trickle or run from the brush. Far excels kalsomine, and covers fully a third more surface.

DECO-MURA comes in a really WHITE white and 15 beautiful pastel colors. It is easily prepared and readily applied, and gives the most lasting beautiful surface you ever saw on wall or ceiling.

Atlanta's Answer To the Government's Challenge

It is proposed to carve upon the face of Stone Mountain in gigantic figures of Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson, Jefferson Davis and other leaders a monument to the Soldiers of the South.

No monument ever conceived by man can be compared with this. The equestrian statue of General Lee will be 150 feet high and the central group of leaders of the Confederacy will extend across the face of the mountain for a thousand feet.

The United States Government, in aiding the erection of this monument, has done a magnanimous act. No other Government ever paid such a tribute to soldiers who fought against it. Only sixty years ago our fathers and grandfathers were fighting against this Government and fighting the Union soldiers, whose sons and grandsons in Congress have voted unanimously with the Southern Congressmen to authorize the coinage by the United States mint of a silver half-dollar, a full legal tender coin of the Government, bearing on its face the American Eagle, and under the words, "United States of America," the figures of Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson, with the words, "To the Valor of the Soldiers of the South."

These coins are to be sold for one dollar, and the difference will be used to carve upon the face of Stone Mountain this everlasting monument to the heroes of the South.

Every one who buys a coin helps to carve this monument. It will be the greatest of all time. The temple of Karnak has fallen, the Pyramids are crumbling, the Parthenon and the Roman Forum are in ruins, but Stone Mountain, with this colossal tribute in living stone to the valor of our fathers, will last through the ages.

Atlanta must lead; Atlanta must rise to the full height of this great occasion and give to this generous challenge of the Government a quick and generous response. Every man, woman and child should have one of these Memorial Coins to hand down as a precious heirloom to his children and children's children.

BENEFIT BALL GAME AT SPILLER'S TODAY

Everything is in readiness for the benefit ball game to be staged this afternoon at Spiller's park, where the Black and White cab team will meet the Georgia Railway and Power company's team. Proceeds will go to the fund for completion of the home for Old Women and Widows of Georgia Veterans which is now under construction in west end.

Construction on this building has had to be halted on account of lack of funds for the first time since the ground was broken last September. It was reported by the finance committee, and 200 old women who will be housed as soon as it is completed are waiting for a home. Only 40 women can be taken care of at present. Those who buy tickets for this ball game will assist in giving a home to somebody's mother for the few remaining years of her life.

The building will cost $150,000. Since construction began $100,000 has been obtained through drives, donations, and a "memory brick" drive. Only $50,000 remains to be obtained to complete the home and take care of four times as many women as it is now able to care for.

LOUISIANA MEN FREED OF CHARGE OF FRAUD

Monroe, La., May 26.—W. B. Warren and H. M. Richardson, charged with using the mails to defraud a Memphis, Tenn., concern, were ordered released from custody today by the federal court here for lack of evidence. The men were charged with being involved in a conspiracy to obtain sums of money on padded drafts in the sale of logs.

There are two magnificent canvases from the brush of John Singer Sargent and examples of the work of almost all the great American painters and sculptors, which is undoubtedly the greatest collection of contemporary American art ever gathered together.

The committee from the Peachtree Garden club in charge today consists of Mrs. Philip Calhoun, president; Mrs. Edward Luman, Mrs. William P. Hill, Mrs. Andrew Calhoun, Mrs. Henry Johnson, Jr., Mrs. Hugh M. Dorsey, Mrs. LeRoy Childs, Mrs. Arthur J. Harris, Mrs. William H. Kiser, Mrs. John W. Grand, Mrs. Jesse Draper, Miss Nellie Hightower, Mrs. Henry Newman, Mrs. Albert Thornton, Jr., Mrs. C. C. Case, Mrs. Edwin Johnson and Mrs. H. C. Caldwell.

Wealthy American Women Start Social War Abroad

BY CHARLES M. McCANN.
London, May 26.—While millions of ordinary Englishmen are celebrating victory over drowning the sorrows of defeat Wednesday night, according to the horse they backed to win the derby, London society will be busy watching an added attraction to the world's most famous horse race—the opening of a social war between Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt of New York, and Mrs. Harry Brown of Pittsburgh.

In previous years both Mrs. Vanderbilt and Mrs. Brown have successfully stormed the thick, strong doors of British society. Mrs. Vanderbilt has entertained the king and queen at her London house; Mrs. Brown's butler has superintended the serving of the Prince of Wales' eggs and salmon at an early morning breakfast following an all-night party.

Both feel confident. So both ladies looked forward with the calm assurance of the woman who has arrived at the summit of a brilliant social season to the opening of the social season this spring. But they found they would have competition. Mrs. James Corrigan is again Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney's here. So is Mrs. John Lawrence, who entertained the
